

FOODY LEGION POST PRESENTS FLAG AND POLE TO CITIZENS

towering eighty-five feet above the level of the sidewalk, was erected under a contract with The George Dodds and Sons Granite Co.

Sheriff Tate, in presenting the gift to Greene County, said:

"This week Greene County has been enjoying and celebrating a Home-Coming. Twenty years ago the first Home-Coming was held, pleasant memories of which have lingered from that time until today.

"But meanwhile a Home-Coming of a different kind was held in this city. Nine years ago the men and women from this county who had served in the World War were welcomed home and have never since forgotten the genuineness of that welcome and the splendid entertainment of every kind given them by the people of this community.

"Shortly thereafter a number of these ex-service men and women associated themselves together in a post of the American Legion called the Joseph P. Foody Post No. 85, American Legion of Ohio, and since that time it has been the desire and the purpose of that Post to in some way show its appreciation for that splendid Home-Coming in 1919. These Legionnaires have, for God and country, associated themselves together to promote peace and good-will on earth; to make right the master of might; to uphold and defend the constitution of the United States of America; to maintain law and order; to safeguard and transmit to posterity the principles of justice, freedom and democracy. The Legionnaires feel that their services did not end with the end of the World War but that they must continue to serve their country in time of peace just as they did in war, and with the same purpose in mind they are endeavoring to carry on, and to instill in the hearts of all the above principles.

"Furthermore, in dedicating itself to the stalwart principle of service—service to the country and to the free-born people who dwell within its broad boundaries, it is the purpose of the Legion to work for the promotion of a better citizenship; to foster and perpetuate ideal Americanism. The Legion has found a fertile field for its endeavors in community upbuilding. Every post of the Legion has been urged to perform some worthwhile task each year which will benefit their respective communities. The Legionnaires have responded and have thrown their full strength into this work, and as a result many communities now have advantages they did not possess before. Community center buildings have been built, educational activities stimulated, airports, athletic fields, and public parks established in this work for community betterment. Wherever local government units find a civic problem they find a Legion Post standing ready to aid them in its solution.

"And so today in presenting this flag and flag-pole to the citizens of Greene County, we feel that we are accomplishing three things—we are expressing our appreciation of the Home-Coming given to us in 1919 by the gift of this American flag, symbolizing as it does the principles for which the Legion stands, and with the knowledge that it will be a benefit to the community as a constant reminder of those principles of justice, freedom and democracy for which we fought, and for which in time of need we will always be ready to fight.

"The bronze tablet on this pedestal reads as follows: Presented to the citizens of Greene County by Joseph P. Foody Post, No. 85, American Legion, Home-Coming 1928.

"I now take great pleasure in presenting, on behalf of Joseph P. Foody Post No. 85, this flag and flag-pole to the president of the board of County Commissioners of this county."

In his acceptance speech, Commissioner Herman Eavey declared: "As president of the board of County Commissioners of this county, and on behalf of the county, it gives me a great deal of pleasure to accept this beautiful flag and flag-pole."

"It has always been as it is now the great pleasure of the County Commissioners to co-operate as closely as possible in every way with those who saw service in all of our wars.

"We have always been proud in the thought that this county supplied more soldiers for the Civil War than any other county in this state in proportion to its population. And as the years have gone by we have grown to appreciate and love the veterans of that war more and more, and are glad to have had the members of the Grand Army of the Republic housed with us in this Court House.

"We have also been most interested in the Boy Scouts, and we are glad to know that they have such a strong and growing organization in this county for we know that upon our boys and girls depends the future welfare and safety of our country.

"We therefore think it most appropriate that on this occasion your memorial tablet has been unveiled by a member of the G. A. R. and a Boy Scout. Today, ba-twoen glorious memories of the past and hopes for a splendid future, we recognize the American Legion as the representative organization of the veterans of the World War, and as such organization the work that it has done and that it will continue to do in support of the fundamental principles of this government, which you as representatives of the Legion set forth a few moments ago, and we recognize that your organization is a great force for service in this community as well as in every community throughout our country.

"We accept this gift in the same spirit in which it was given and assure you and the people of this community that it will be our sincere pleasure as well as our duty to protect it and to see that it ever floats high in the air where all can see as a symbol of those principles of justice, freedom and democracy on which the constitution of our country is based."

To take a single ride in the New Hudson Super-Six is to revise your whole knowledge of automobile values.

Here is brilliancy of performance that gives new luster and meaning to the word.

It is the master car at every issue. And in every performance asked of a motor it possesses ability beyond anything heretofore known.

In all the years your Hudson serves, you will hardly require its full capacity. You can scarcely encounter a situation to tax its limit of power.

This performance mastery gives innumerable advantages. For instance you travel faster within the speed limits. That is because you are away quicker. You pick up faster. You level hills with ease. You have smoothness that makes the long journey comfortable and free of fatigue.

And these qualities have won Hudson the greatest reception, sales and public acknowledgment in its history.

SAVING NATION FROM SLUMP

All Americans—factory workers, clerks, business men or housewives—are indebted to advertising for the unprecedented prosperity that has raised the average standard of living in this country since 1920 to a point never before achieved in history.

This is the view of Paul M. Mazur, New York banker and economist, whose recent book "American Prosperity" won him recognition as one of the nation's foremost business analysts.

It was advertising, primarily, that revived American business from the slump of 1920 and accelerated the current era of prosperity, Mr. Mazur asserts in an article published in The Golden Book Magazine.

Mass production in industry had been developed to an abnormal volume during the war, he points out, leaving America with the greatest machinery of industrial production ever known, but with a market abruptly curtailed, when peace came.

Industry faced two alternatives. Either it had to create a market for its increased output or reduce the output, dismantle machinery, lower wages and return the country to its pre-war standards. The only profitable solution was to increase the demand of consumers.

The results, Mr. Mazur shows, was that products which never before had been advertised to the general public—such as plumbing fixtures, automobile accessories, furnaces, household hardware, paints, brick, telephones and roofing—began to appear in the newspapers and popular magazines where before they had been confined to the trade papers. Advertising appropriations of all kinds were increased.

The result was that the advertising, coupled with intensified salesmanship and improved distribution, increased the demand of the public for better wages of all kinds, factories were again speeded up to war-time production and wages were maintained near their war levels, thus enabling the worker to purchase more and better articles.

"The unfortunate experience of those companies that have discarded advertising expense as a needless encroachment upon profits is a negative but nevertheless impressive argument in favor of advertising," the writer points out. "On the other hand, the sustained and increasing success of business institutions that have expressed their belief in advertising must be accepted, in part at least, as positive argument for the value of the printed public appeal."

Judging by the way people yelled at the conventions, many of them have had something in their hip pockets besides their purses.

The newspapers advertise for sealed proposals, but some girls take 'em either sealed or unsealed.

Just in case nobody remembers to mention it between now and November: Get out and vote.

Prejudice is what many an orator refers to in his speeches as "principle."

CONTEST

The spirit of contest never dies in human kind. Comes now a French barber who gives himself a good, twice-over shave in 27 seconds. He sets this out as the world's record. As far as the writer who never shaves himself, is concerned, it always will be.

We have had contests in about everything we can think of. Flag pole sitting, a pleasant diversion for those who like it, has faded out in popularity. In fact, it was never taken up by any considerable number of folks, most of whom prefer golf, although flag pole sitting offers a much more inspiring view of the landscape and gives ample time for reflection.

HAIR

Speaking of contests, Chicago has a woman who claims to have the longest hair in the world. She is Mrs. Ethel Postlethwaite, and her braids measure five feet seven inches. That's seven inches longer than the hair of an Irish girl, living in London, who thought she held the record. The Chicago woman has a daughter whose hair, at birth, was long enough to put a ribbon on. Tie that.

LABOR

Labor, since man began to work, has passed through stages. First there was the individualist—every man for himself. Then there was specialization—groups doing one thing and other groups doing other things. Then there was exploitation—large numbers working for one man or a small group of men without much regard for hours and wages and comfort. And now we have the stage of co-operation—both employees and employers recognizing the mutual advantage of helping each other. As an outstanding example of the age and stage of co-operation, we have the General Motors corporation taking out $400,000,000 worth of life insurance on 200,000 workers. The expense will be shared by the company and the men.

COST OF LIVING

Chemistry is always creating new values. Market prices, based on scarcity of production, are destined to be upset by tremendous new production methods made possible by chemical engineers. Rapidly we are learning how to manufacture in vast quantities and more cheaply. Steinmetz once said electricity might some day be generated so cheaply as to be almost devoid of price. Will the chemists some day do this for food?

The Diary of a New Yorker

By CLARK KINNAIRD

NEW YORK.—There is only one hotel in New York in which women are forbidden to smoke, the Martha Washington. Smoking by women is not common; but there are still persons who stare every time they see one puffing a cigarette in public. I am one of those persons.

Such women as are glad there is a "new freedom" owe a lot to Irene Castle, whom Broadway has almost forgotten. She is now a Chicago matron. Mrs. Castle was the first woman conspicuous in the public eye to bob her hair; and she was one of the first to smoke unashamedly as if she had a right to it as she liked. She also had considerable to do with changing dancing into what it is today, although the graceful creations of the Castle are far from the gymnastic "Black Bottom" and "Charleston."

Speaking of dancing, there is a distinct trend toward the romantic waltz in "Roseland" and other Broadway dance palaces.

And the biggest sellers in sheet music are sentimental songs.

Youth seems to be recovering from its jazz jag and finding that the steps mother and dad liked when they were young are nice to dance, after all.

Frank McLearn, Central Press New York writer, after seeing "The Front Page," a comedy of newspaper life, by Ben Hecht and Charles MacArthur, reports:

"There remains yet to be written a newspaper play that gives a truthful picture of what goes on in the city room of a metropolitan daily. Perhaps, and this is the greatest newspaper men delight in dramatizing any situation, one never shall be written. But for an approach, for the picture of the inside workings of a daily sheet as most newspaper men would have it, this play is the best yet. And it will play in the best yet. And it talking about it."

"Here is the pressroom in the criminal courts building, Chicago, with a group of swearing, poker-playing, cynical reporters gathered about. They are smart, their wisecracks, and these fellows should really be working for a humor magazine, keep the audience on its toes. 'What next, you wonder.' 'Everything considered, this is an entertaining play. It's virile. There is no lack of swearing, no lack of action, nor of plot.'"

A lot of readers of this column indicate in letters to me that New York can be seen in one day. And it can.

Here's a tour of the biggest city in the world that can be made in less than 12 hours for less than $4, and gives the visitor an intimate and comprehensive idea of what it's like:

1. Take Broadway-South Ferry subway car from Times Square to Battery Park.

2. From park, take all around Manhattan Island steam trip, walk north on Broadway to Woolworth building and go up to the tower.

3. From Woolworth building go to City Hall park and take taxi to Washington Square. Get some glimpses of Greenwich Village and return to square.

4. From Washington Square take Fifth Avenue-St. Nicholas avenue bus. Get out at 58th street, peek into lobbies and lounges of the Sherry-Netherland or Savoy-Plaza apartment hotels, most expensive apartments in the world. Then walk east to Park avenue for a glimpse of the "Gold Coast" and on down the East river to see the tenements. Return by taxi or foot to Columbus Circle and walk down Broadway as the great electric signs begin to blaze.

5. Take B-M-T subway from Times Square to Coney Island. Return by boat.

How to Achieve Beauty

By MME. HELENA RUBINSTEIN

There are six outstanding ages of beauty—the first of them beginning at infancy and leading through childhood.

I wonder how many mothers, busy with diets and vitamins, realize that it is a part of their duty to build beauty along with health. Not many, I fancy. And it is a conclusion I have arrived at with the deepest regret.

Every mother shampoo her child's hair regularly, but does she do it with an eye to the future or merely as a literal, uninspired part of her maternal duties? Usually the latter—and as a result, what do we find in later years? Short ends, unhealthy growth and dimmed lustre. A child's hair grows rapidly, but despite the inches that are clipped off from season to season, if the scalp is not kept stimulated and healthy, the future growth is menaced.

Soap should never be used on a child's hair until it has been melted to a liquid form. Cautious soap, that is, soap containing too much alkali, is bad, melted or not. And with the layman's lack of knowledge of the matter, it is far safer to advise in general the use of the same herbal shampoo which you use for your own shampoo. Be sure the water used is "soft." If you have any doubt about it, add one part borax to every fifteen parts water.

On the subject of childhood, I want to say a few words about the effect contagious illnesses have upon hair growth. After fevers, the scalp becomes dry and unproductive, the glands spasmodic in their release of the oil necessary for scalp health and hair growth, and, as a consequence, split and falling hair, and not infrequently, a thin uneven, straggly growth results. The precaution is to clip the hair short. Then, when the child is released from the sick room, twice a week, massage the scalp with lukewarm olive or balsam oil. Tie up the head, and in the morning shampoo with a good herbal shampoo. It will not be long before the unhealthy condition completely disappears under this treatment.

Eyes are another neglected part of childhood beauty. On the nursery medicine shelf there should be individual eye cups for every child in the house. One bottle of a good eye lotion will do for all, and teach your child to preserve not only sight, but the beauty of his eyes, by washing them each day with the little eye cup. However, it is important to select a mild lotion; perhaps the best is a mild boracic acid solution. This one precaution may save untold eye trouble in later years.

The teeth, too, must be considered, not only for cleanliness, but beauty. A semi-annual visit to the dentist will care for this. The dentist will advise upon the proper methods of cleaning the baby teeth, and as a child grows older, he will straighten, tighten or perform whatever other orthodontic measures his experience deems advisable.

Upon these elementary beauty measures your child's future happiness may depend. It pays to consider them!

WHAT TO DO WHEN SUN BRINGS ON PIMPLY RASH

After I sit in the sun for a short while, a rash appears on my skin which itches terribly. If I go in bathing, and then sit on the beach to dry my suit, all parts of my body which are not covered have this rash inside of three or four hours. It appears like tiny red pimples, and if scratched, gets little white blisters. It doesn't make any difference where I am—shore or country—just as soon as I get out into the sun, I get this troublesome rash. I have had it for the last five summers.

Chow Chow

(Mrs. Mary Morton's Daily Tested Recipe.)
One peck green tomatoes, one-half peck string beans, one-quarter peck small white onions, three red, three green peppers, two heads cabbage, four tablespoons white mustard seed, two tablespoons cloves, two tablespoons celery seed, two tablespoons allspice, one pound brown sugar, one ounce tumeric. Slice tomatoes and let stand overnight, salting each layer well. In the morning squeeze out the briny juice, grind or chop cabbage, onions, beans. Chop tomatoes separately. Mix all with spices, add salt if needed, put in preserving kettle and cover with vinegar. Boil three hours. Can

Quite a few suffer this inconvenience, Mrs. D. It is a form of hives, due to the action of the chemical rays of the sun on certain skins. Why the sun should thus cut up is not known.

The most usual form of hives is due to certain foods—strawberries, mushrooms, shellfish, etc.—to which the victim is sensitive. It is often brought about by dietary indiscretions, and perhaps there is some dietary indiscretion of short or long duration preceding the sun hives, which makes the skin sensitive. Are you on a balanced diet, and do you obey the other hygienic rules?

Different remedies help allay the itching—bicarbonate of soda, lemon, toilet water, vinegar and water, etc. Better look to your whole hygienic regime, however, because you don't want to lose the benefit of the sun baths.

When you do take sunbaths, you should remember that you should expose your skin for a very short time at first and very gradually increase it, so that the skin tans rather than burns.

If you are interested in our article on Hives, you may have it by following column rules. Better ask also for the article on Balanced Diet.

The Fad of Extreme Thinness

The patient is a girl of 23 years. During her periods she is like a croupy child or an asthmatic person; her breathing is so affected. She loses between 5 and 10 pounds during the periods, and as she is underweight, she can't afford this. She refuses to eat anything that is at

Can Woman Expect Happiness With Man Younger Than She?

That woman age more quickly than men always has been accepted as the truth. But is it true today? I think not. One has only to look about him at a gathering of middle-aged people to see that, if anything, modern women look, act, feel and actually are, just as young as men of the same age, and often younger.

Then to marry a man younger than oneself has always been a reproach to a woman. It was somehow felt that a woman older than her husband must have used unfair coercion to get him, and if the fact be known her acquaintances twist her with it. The husband himself usually being the "under the skin" of the victim and leaves her hurt and angry. Such things do not make for marital happiness. Although this twitting may be intended as humor, it almost usually gets tial happiness.

"Dear Mrs. Lee: My trouble is that I've met the right man but cannot have him. What little time I did go with him he was so sweet and kind, and when he asked me to marry him I was the happiest girl on earth. Then he asked me to wait a year as he was only 20. I could hardly believe him, as he looked and acted much older than I. I am 28, but an little and have always chummed with my younger sister and her crowd. He thought I was 20. After finding this out we agreed not to see each other any more. My mother and I both think that I'll always be and look young for my age, and if he really loved me he would still want me. He now works about all fattening because she is afraid of getting fat. Please, Doctor, put the answer in the paper as soon as possible. W."

The girl should go to a physician for a thorough physical examination. W. As she is underweight, and not eating correctly, it may be that she is anemic and that the loss of blood makes her more so. (Usually in anemia the menses lessen considerably.) In anemia there is an oxygen hunger which causes the breathing to be affected. There may be an element of hysteria attached to this girl's condition—some mental complex which causes her to use this method of getting sympathy and attention, which she may not realize at all.

The foolish fad of extreme thinness is happily dying out. The increase in tuberculosis among girls is no doubt due to the fad. The prolonged restricted diet, deficient in the things that the body needs, lowers the resistance so that the tuberculosis germ can thrive. Young people must know that it is better for them to be slightly over the average weight than under. This does not mean excess fat in the least, but simply a pleasing, softly-curved figure.

Behind the Scenes in Washington

By CHARLES P. STEWART

WASHINGTON.—Perhaps it was a good thing for Representative James T. Begg of Sandusky to be beaten for the G. O. P. nomination as governor of Ohio.

One hears this suggestion quite freely made by politicians around Republican headquarters in Washington.

All have a deep respect for Begg, as a coming man in public life. None has any idea that he has run into anything worse than a nasty jolt, from which he will have recovered fully before the next round is called.

Nevertheless, not a few "I told you so's" were to be noted, as the Buckeye State primary returns trickled in.

Old-timers spotted Begg as a marvel in his very first term in congress—which was only five terms ago—not long, as congressional careers are reckoned on Capitol Hill.

A marvel!—yes—but young—and, before he had been here more than a term or two, rather dangerously cocksure!

The "I told you so's" meant that experienced fans—including plenty of admirers of Jim—had been looking to see the boy wonder stop a hot one sooner or later, in the course of one of his rushes, if he did not mind his eye.

Now it has happened. But what of it? Does anyone expect Begg to quit? Oh, my, no!

It will only teach him caution. He will be back, better than ever, when the next election rolls around. That is the verdict.

Few, if any, will deny that Jim Begg was born to shine in politics.

Consider his accomplishments hitherto.

He first landed in Washington in 1919—only nine years ago. Most congressmen class as babies for at least that long, and have it impressed on them that they should be seen, not heard. None of that for Begg. He would show his fellow-representative what was what and who was who.

He would elect a speaker his own choice—no less.

Everybody admits that he engineered the campaign that landed Nicholas Longworth in the chair in 1925.

Naturally Begg was premier lieutenant. In only his fourth term in congress he was assistant majority leader of the house of representatives and one of the most powerful men in Washington.

Then he got the Ohio governorship bug.

Why that particular bug? Ah—what better stepping stone than the executive mansion at Columbus to the White House itself? Let none imagine that Jim Begg hadn't that notion in the back of his head. I was no idle fancy, either—may not be yet. Not many things are impossible to Begg.

But it was just at this juncture that he stepped into that jolt.

Begg, in congress, was a faithful plunger for the Anti-Saloon League.

He never pretended that his conscience was dry, but he voted dry, as he freely owned, for his own political good health. He was a super-efficient dry plunger, too—for efficiency is his middle name.

As a matter of course, he expected the Anti-Saloon League's endorsement for governor. Well, he got it, but with a string on it—an expressed preference for Meyers Y. Cooper, his rival, as an honest-to-goodness, as well as political dry.

It was just about enough to turn the scale against Begg—for Cooper barely nosed him for the nominating primary, and no more.

Oh but this wet-and-dry, business, for a statesman, is a ticklish thing!

Kethygrams

By FRED C. KELLY

I recently heard a large, pompous woman customer haughtily trying to impress a quiet little sales girl in a department store.

"Rully, rully," she said, in a throaty voice, "I don't if you have anything here that would suit me. I think I'll just wait until I'm back in New Yauck."

After the customer had duck-footed out, the little sales girl turned to one of her associates and observed:

"That old egg thinks she's slumming."

People who try to be impressive usually succeed only in making asses of themselves.

Amelia: If you have shown your manner that you like the boy, Amelia, you can do nothing else, except, possibly to take a friendly interest in his plans and hopes so that he can see you are a sympathetic little soul to whom he might like to unburden his heart.

Here: A man who carries a pig skin down a field cleared by other men who don't count.

Peter's Adventure

By MRS. FLORENCE SMITH VINCENT

The Floating Eves

Mrs. Bobolink, priding herself on her knowledge, ruffled her feathers. "We know exactly what submarines are, and how they duck beneath the waves for us."

"First you see a great big boat, then slowly but surely it sinks beneath the waves."

"Right-o," agreed Bobolink, nodding his head. "And I hope that from now on you will believe I know what I am talking about when I tell you a thing."

"Well, as I was saying, the Cormorants, with their bodies under the water and their long-necked heads on top looked like a fleet of small submarines, and

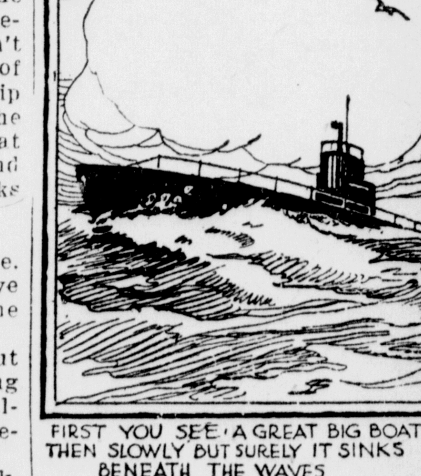

"What do you suppose Mother Rabbit and I care what they looked like," interrupting Bobolink.

"We don't know what submarines are anyhow, and we don't give a lettuce leaf! What we want to know is what the Cormorants did! The captain, did he stay on the buoy all the time his brothers and sisters were floating about, or did he join them?"

"You are a rude, selfish, Sonny-Bunny," declared Bobolink, and poor Mrs. Rabbit buried her face in her paws for shame to hear her son spoken to like that. But she couldn't say a word, for she knew he deserved it. Mrs. Bobolink, however, chirped reproachfully to her mate.

"Now Bob, don't be a cross."

patch!" she said. "When you were young you were not a bit better behaved than Sonny-Bunny, I am sure. You don't always remember your manners now. You know I don't blame the youngsters for wanting you to go on with the story, and if you don't want it."

"Shut yourself," grumbled her husband, so the little lady bird continued.

"Well, Sonny-Bunny, after those Cormorants had stared at us until I began to think they were never going to stop and haul learned all about us from Captain, who stayed on the buoy to explain things, they began to fish. You may not believe it, but I do think they caught hundreds of fish right while we were watching!"

Next—"Keep Your Eye on Me!"

GAME WILL DECIDE CITY'S WORST TEAM

To decide which has the worst softball team in the city, the Phi Delta Kappa Fraternity and the Kiwanis Club, teams which finished in first place in the National and American Leagues, respectively, have arranged to play a post-season series of three games.

The opening game will be played next Monday night at 6 o'clock at Cox Memorial Athletic Field, followed by contests the following Wednesday and Thursday.

Each team succeeded in winning one game apiece during the season in their respective leagues. The post-season series is being arranged to settle the question of inferiority.

Neither team will be permitted to "load up" for the series. Only members of the two organizations will be eligible to participate. The series is expected to attract as great interest as the coming series for the 1923 city softball championship.

INDIAN LAKE GIRL NOW "MISS OHIO"

CEDAR POINT, O., Aug. 30.—Miss Emadee Graham, of Indian Lake, today holds the title of "Miss Ohio" for this year, and will represent the Buckeye state in the bathing beauty contest at Miami, Fla., in December.

Miss Graham was declared the winner of the state bathing beauty contest, which was conducted here in connection with the annual Ohio Elks' Convention. She was selected last night from the twelve survivors of an original list of thirty contestants.

Miss Hetty Bell Fell, of Kent, won second honors and Miss Grace Woods, of Akron, was third.

AFTER TITLE AND SERIES DOUGH

Al Simmons, leading hitter of the Philadelphia Athletics, not only hopes to land the league batting honors this year, but would like to crash his way into a world's series pot as well.

Ritticisms

BY BILL RITT

The best thing for the other American League clubs to do is just ignore the Yankees.

It was a great break for sport page headline writers when I put Czechoslovakia out of Davis cup competition.

Friends of Tom Heeney have given him a cloak made of feathers. Maybe he can use it as a mattress after the big fight.

A New York Giant catcher ran head-on into a concrete dugout without injuring himself or the dugout. Just another example of the wonders of modern architecture.

Men's suits for fall will have roomy trousers and less money than ever in the pockets.

The office stenog is so dumb she thinks water polo is played on sea horses.

By now the mosquitoes of Brule River, Wisconsin, probably have come to the conclusion that what this country needs is bigger and fatter presidents.

THOUSAND SIGNED REGISTER IN XENIA

Fewer former residents attended the 1923 Greene County Home-Coming, which was also celebrated as Xenia's 125th anniversary, than returned for the similar celebration twenty years ago, according to Home-Coming officials.

The registration book at Home-Coming headquarters contains the names of approximately 1,000 former Greene Countyans. In 1903 it is estimated that 1,700 former residents attended the Home-Coming.

However, the headquarters registration book is not believed to be an accurate barometer of the total number of ex-Greene Countyans who were here for the Home-Coming since many failed to register.

Volstead Nuptials

Roy Chapman Andrews, leader of the American Museum of Natural History's expedition into Central Asia, reports that his party has unearthed the headbones of a prehistoric monster "about the size of the Woolworth building." The latter structure is 792 feet high. The monster which the Amnagagement to Mr. Carl Lomen, draws party refers to could easily have gobbled a half-dozen elephants in a single bite.

Miss Laura Volstead, daughter of former Representative Andrew J. Volstead of Minnesota, who has announced her engagement to Mr. Carl Lomen, of Alaska. Their marriage will take place in October.

PREPARES ANTARCTIC FLIGHT

Especially posed portrait of Commander Richard E. Byrd in his clothing which he will wear on his expedition into the unknown lands of the Antarctic.

BACK FROM MINORS TO AID YANKS

Freddy Heimach, once a member of the Philadelphia Athletics, has been purchased from the St. Paul club of the American Association by the New York Yanks. Heimach, a southpaw, has been one of the outstanding hurlers of the A. A. loop. The move on the part of the Yanks is plainly an effort to strengthen their wobbly pitching staff.

Establishes New Parachute Record

Jack Cope, veteran pilot, shown establishing new world's record over Ashburn Field, Chicago. He dropped 3,400 feet before pulling rip cord that opened his parachute. Inset, Cope just prior to feat.

Drops 3,400 Feet

Jack Cope, veteran pilot, now holds a parachute record. Snapped in Illinois while he prepared for his hop, Cope immediately afterwards jumped 10,000 feet from an airplane cabin door into space and dropped 3,400 feet before opening his parachute, falling through space for 13½ seconds before pulling the string to release the parachute.

An Author Rests

Major P. C. Wren, author of a best seller, "Beau Geste," poses in the garden of his home in Hampshire, England. Since leaving Oxford he has traveled in most of the countries of the world and has served in the French Foreign Legion, where he obtained material for his book.

War's Aftermath

A newspaper story depicting the plight of Charles Henry Gough, said to have been a brigadier general in the Australian army during the World War, who had come to the United States and thence to Quebec, where he was discovered washing dishes in a hotel, has resulted in the offer of a job by a steamship company, which he has accepted. This photo shows him in his Australian uniform.

FORMER XENIAN HAS WRITTEN NEW BOOK ON RELIGIOUS TOPIC

A new book by Dr. Daniel Johnson Fleming, former Xenian, who occupies the chair of foreign service at Union Theological Seminary, New York, is recently out the press and is attracting the favorable attention of critics.

The work, "Attitudes Toward Other Faiths" has been selected as the book for July by the editorial committee of the Religious Book Club Inc. The announcement, signed by S. Parkes Cadman, Henry Emerson Fosdick, Bishop Charles H. Brent, Bishop F. J. McConnell and Mary E. Wooley, says:

"There is no superficial assumption on Prof. Fleming's part that all religions are of equal merit, or that all are equally adequate to human need."

"Never is there any disposition to water down the religious experience of men to a thin common denominator. On the other hand, there is an insistent warning that not only a genuine knowledge of other religions, but also a vital experience of one's own, is the indispensable condition of any worthwhile inter-religious fellowship. Otherwise we shall hardly escape the perils either of a rose colored dilettantism, or else of spineless indifference. Few men could muster such essential qualifications for this study as the author."

Dr. Fleming is the son of the late Mr. and Mrs. Daniel Fleming and was born and reared in Xenia. He had not lived here since his graduation at Wooster College following which he spent fourteen years as a professor at Lahore Christian College, India. He has been connected with Union Theological Seminary for ten years.

SENATOR ROBINSON WILL BE NOTIFIED ON THURSDAY NIGHT

where, throughout the city the dominating countenance is that of the vice presidential nominee.

Governor Smith will not be here for the notification of his running mate, but has designated his eldest daughter, Mrs. John B. Warner as his personal emissary. John J. Raskob, chairman of the Democratic national committee, who will preside at the ceremonies tonight, was scheduled to arrive from St. Louis shortly before noon. With him were Senator Peter G. Gerry of Rhode Island, chairman of the national advisory committee, Mrs. Nellie Taylor Ross, former governor of Wyoming, and vice-chairman of the national committee, and Mrs. Franklin D. Roosevelt, chairman of the woman's advisory committee. National committeemen, state chairmen and rank and file representatives of the democracy of the entire nation added to the throngs.

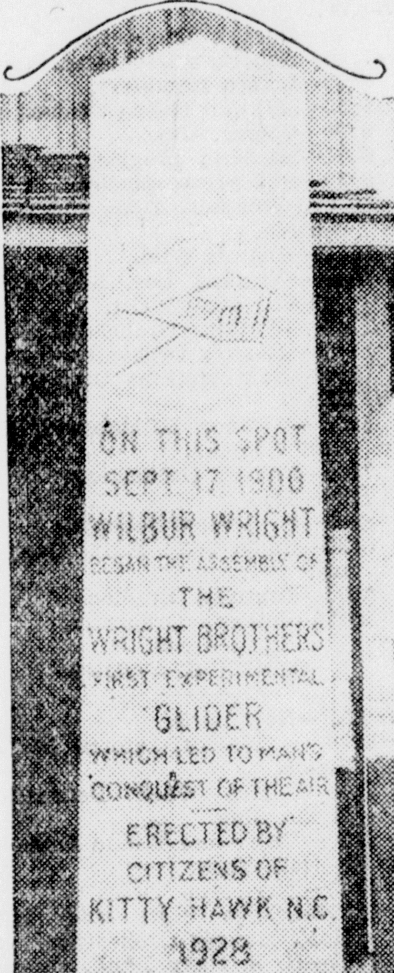

Claude G. Bowers, keynoter of the Houston convention, will deliver the address of notification at 8:30 p. m., Central Standard Time. Senator Robinson's speech of acceptance in which he is expected to outline the major issues of the solid south campaign, will follow immediately. Fifty-five radio stations from coast to coast are linked for the broadcast.

Gov. Harvey Parnell has declared today a state-wide holiday. Mayor Leo McLaughlin has issued a proclamation requesting residents of the city to keep their automobiles off the streets as much as possible to make way for the tourist traffic which converged on the city by every artery.

Powerful flood lights, concealed in the hillside pines are to light the mountain ridges which tower above the speaker's platform at either side of the Arlington Hotel Parkway. The governor's salute will be fired by a contingent of Arkansas national guard from the top of Hot Springs Mountain, half a mile away, as Senator Robinson makes his appearance.

The platform from which Robinson will speak is in a pocket in the street known to the world around as "Bath House Row." Within five city blocks, all on one side of the street, are the twenty-seven natural hot water baths which made Hot Springs famous. Forty-nine springs in Hot Springs Mountains are the source of the city's world-wide fame. One of these springs is situated half way up the mountain side not more than 200 feet forward of the speaker's stand.

Memorial to Wright

On the spot where Wilbur Wright, aviation pioneer, worked on his glider at Kitty Hawk, N. C., in 1900, and finally took off on the first successful heavier-than-air flight, citizens have erected this shaft, in the front yard of the Methodist parsonage.

Relief from curse of constipation. A Battle Creek physician says, "Constipation is responsible for more misery than any other cause."

But immediate relief has been found. A tablet called Rexall Orderlies has been discovered. This tablet attracts water from the system into the lax, dry, evacuating bowel called the colon. The water loosens the dry food waste and causes a gentle thorough, natural movement without forming a habit or ever increasing the dose.

Stop suffering from constipation. Chew a Rexall Orderlie at night. Next day bright. Get 24 for 25c to day at the nearest Rexall Drug Store. —Adv. Store.

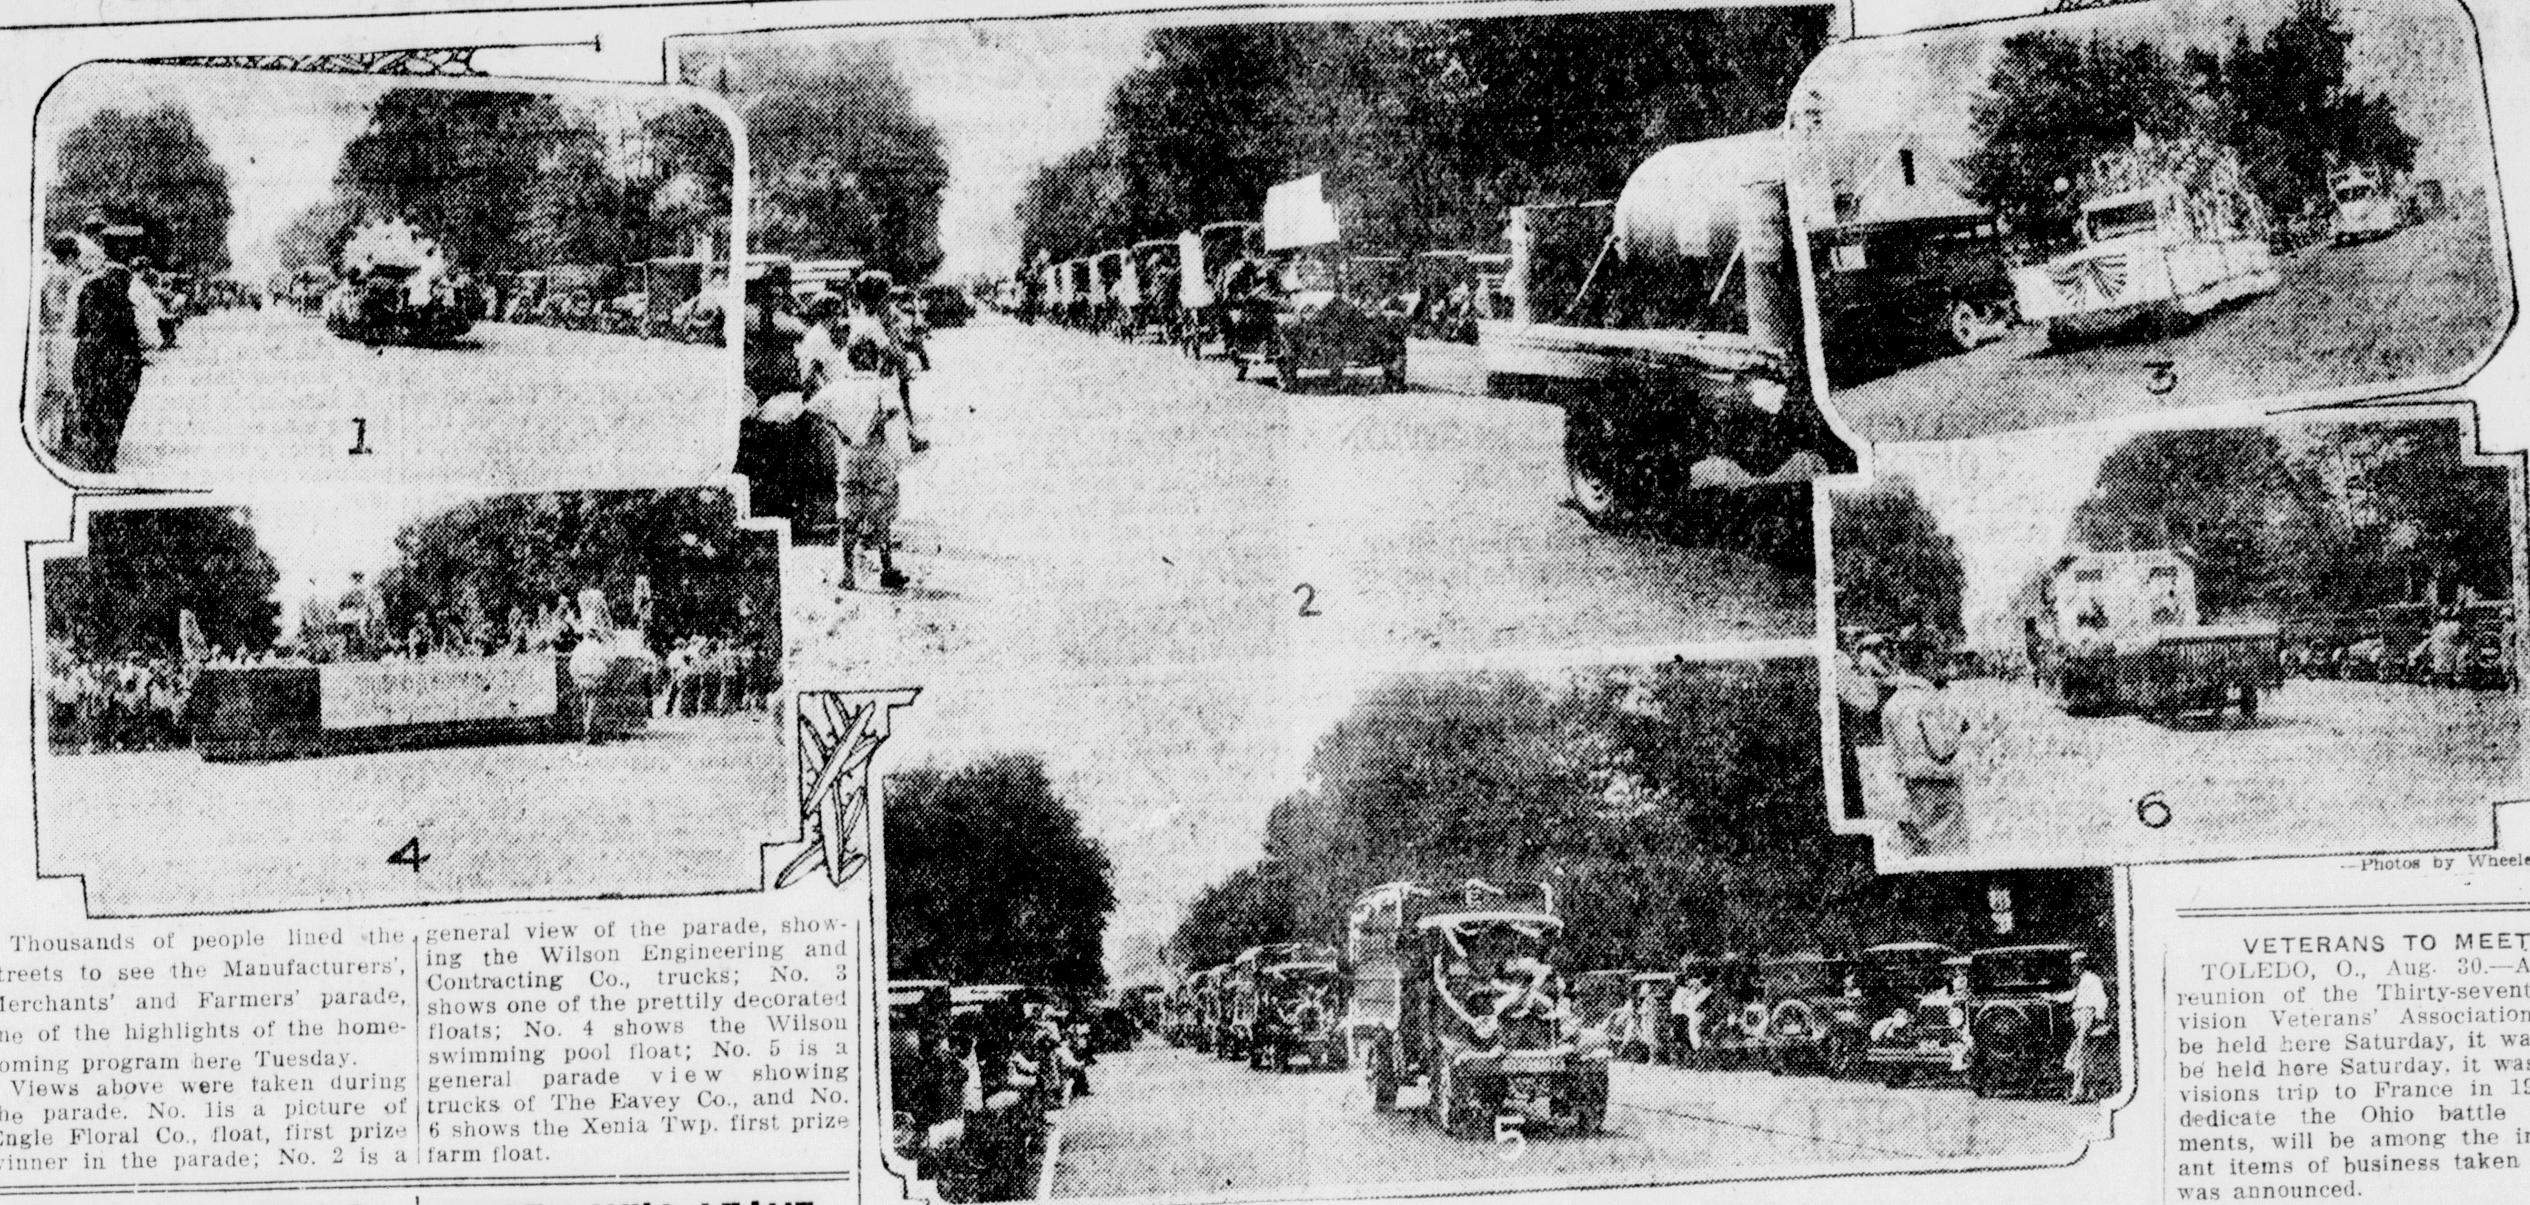

has been giving relief in thousands of cases, as testified to in unsolicited letters of gratitude.

"I was troubled with pimples and blackheads. I took a course of S.S.S. It cleared my face and back. I think S.S.S. is wonderful. I have told many friends about S.S.S. and they are getting as much benefit as I did." —Miss Ruth Gahn, 1134 Elden Ave., Los Angeles, Calif.

All drug stores sell S.S.S. in two sizes. Get the larger size. It is more economical.

JANSEN WILL LEAVE XENIA SATURDAY

Harry Jansen, circulation manager of THE GAZETTE for the last year and one-half, has resigned his position effective September 1 to become district circulation manager for the Lorain, Ohio, Times-Herald.

Mr. Jansen came here from Middletown and was formerly connected with the Cincinnati Enquirer. Mrs. Jansen will not move to Lorain until later, Howell Huston, Xenia, who has been assistant to Mr. Jansen, will succeed him as circulation manager of THE GAZETTE.

ELEAZER

Miss Mary Smith spent a few days at the reservoir last week and also at West Carrollton.

Mr. and Mrs. Laverne Fulton spent Saturday with Mr. and Mrs. W. P. Maddux, at Frankfort and Mrs. Maddux returned home with them Sunday morning to visit during the homecoming. Mr. Maddux and Mr. and Mrs. Ralph Whaley came Tuesday and Mrs. Fulton returned with them Tuesday night.

Mr. and Mrs. Thomas Faulkner, Mr. and Mrs. Laverne Fulton were guests of Mr. and Mrs. Thomas Bales, for Sunday dinner.

STEAK BURNS

Smoke arising from a forgotten steak which was left in an oven and burned, resulted in a summons for the fire department to the home of Ella E. Bickett, 25 Leaman St., at 11:04 a. m. Wednesday. William Quirk, former extra fireman, who lives across the street from the Bickett residence, turned in the alarm. Loss was small.

FOUR INJURED WHEN TWO AUTOS COLLIDE AT STREET CORNER

Miss Nelle McKay, W. Second St., advertising solicitor for THE GAZETTE, received a painful cut on her hip and severe bruises; her niece, little Miss Betty McKay, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. W. P. McKay, E. Second St. was cut on her hip and Mrs. W. P. McKay, Kansas City, Mo., Miss McKay's sister, was bruised when the auto in which they were occupants was struck by the machine driven by Brant Bell, Hill and Columbus St., at the intersection of Third and Monroe Sts., Wednesday night at 10:30 o'clock.

Miss McKay, Mrs. McGarey and little niece were in the auto of H. S. Dalley, and were driving east on Third St. The Bell machine was being driven north on Monroe and it is believed neither driver saw the other.

The Dalley machine was rolled over several times. The Bell auto was not damaged nor its occupants hurt. Mr. Dalley received painful bruises and slight cuts.

The injured people of the other car were removed to the W. P. McKay home where a physician attended them.

Poems that Live

COUNSEL

If thou shouldst bid thy friend farewell,
But for one night though that farewell may be,
Press thou his hand in thine; thou canst not tell
How far from thee

Fate or caprice may lead his feet

Ere that tomorrow come. Men have been known
Lightly to turn the corner of a street
And days have grown

To months, and months to lagging years,

Before they look on loving eyes again.
Parting, at best, is underlaid with tears,
With tears and pain,

Therefore, lest sudden death should come between,

Or time, or distance, clasp with pressure true
The palm of him who goeth forth; unseen,
Fate goeth too!

Yea, find thou always time to say

Some earnest word betwixt the idle talk,
Lest with these henceforth ever, night and day,
Regret should walk.

—Mary E. M. Davis (1852-1909)

THE MEMORIAL FOUNTAIN

When the class of 1908, Central High School, presented the school with the ornamental fountain which still stands on the site of the old building, Miss Jean B. Elwell, then head of the English department composed a sonnet for the occasion.

When the class of 1908 held a reunion during the home-coming, the sonnet was revived for the occasion and is published herewith following general requests:

Dedication of The Memorial Fountain, June 22, 1908

O mystic hour! As trails the veiling day,
And waiting stars gleam far in faint-flushed skies,
By magic power the cloud-born waters rise
In prismatic sheen, in rhythmic murmuring spray.

Then Hippocrene and founts where Naiads play
Or Arethuse swift files in misty guise,
This fountain of perpetual youth out-veils;
For mortal mind here holds immortal sway.

Not from the ground the purling rilllets spring;
Thy myriad drippings from the brimming bowl
Are thoughts of these fair youth in friendship bound;
'Neath dusky boughs, their mingling voices ring
In choral joy that 'rolls from soul to soul'.
While crystal showers the echoing sounds flash round.

—Jean B. Elwell.

50 Percent Humor 50 Percent Slang

Willie Collier is the author of this statement and says that he ought to know. You see, Willie is the only native New Yorker that is living in New York, so he says, and claims he is qualified to observe changes in the old town—its folks, its stage, and its humor.

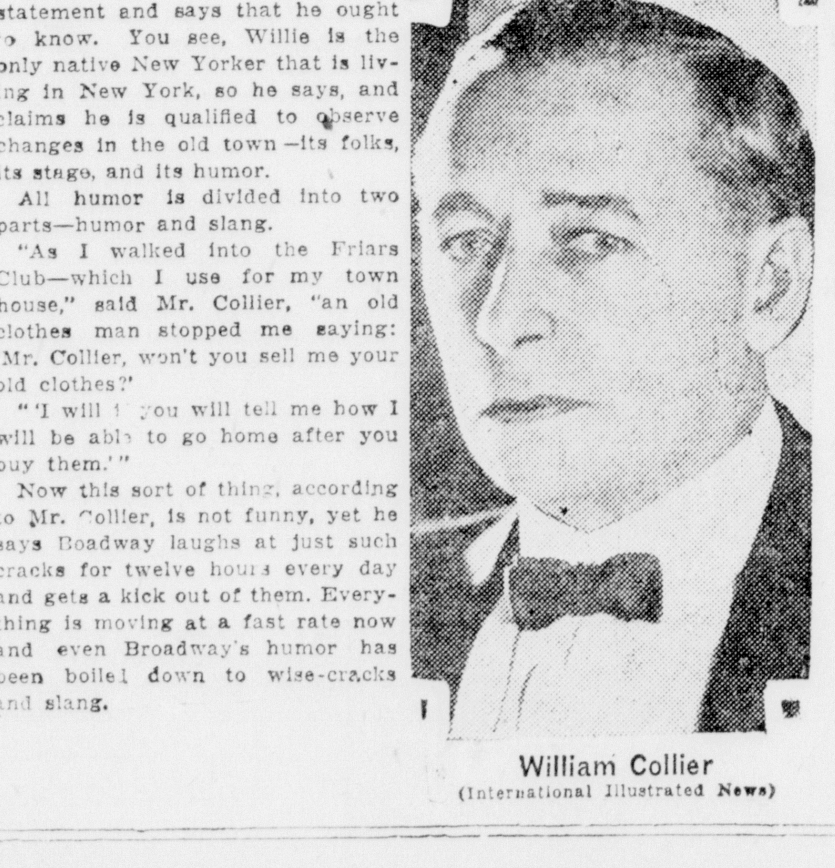

All humor is divided into two parts—humor and slang.

"As I walked into the Friars Club—which I use for my town house," said Mr. Collier, "an old clothes man stopped me saying: 'Mr. Collier, won't you sell me your old clothes?'"

"I will tell you how I will be able to go home after you buy them."

Now this sort of thing, according to Mr. Collier, is not funny, yet he says Broadway laughs at just such cracks for twelve hours every day and gets a kick out of them. Everything is moving at a fast rate now and even Broadway's humor has been boiled down to wise-cracks and slang.

A Romance of the Footlights

By ALMA SIOUX SCARBERRY

READ THIS FIRST:

Janet Mary James, eighteen and pretty, becomes a star in Mort Goldstein's latest musical show, "Blue Laws of 1928." Among her friends is Ballard Riley, who is known as a sort of woman hater. Janet falls in love with him. Ballard is afraid of the publicity he may get from a romance with a show girl and keeps Janet guessing. In the show troupe, Janet and Floeline Deslys, is a jealous of Janet on account of her success. She hides a diamond ring in Janet's dressing room the opening night of the show, believing she will cause Janet to lose her position. Floeline is observed slipping into Janet's dressing room by Lotus Flower, Janet's little Chinese maid. The next day Janet is summoned to police headquarters.

The police find that the charge against Janet is a frame-up, and Floeline is discharged from the cast of the show. Maxine Griffiths, a chorus girl, is a great friend of Janet's. Janet befriended Maxine in rehearsal days, when Maxine was "broke."

NOW GO ON WITH THE STORY

CHAPTER XXXVIII

Maxine burst into Janet's room that night like a young cyclone. Janet was amazed when she grabbed her and whirled her around until she was dizzy.

"Silly!" Janet laughed, when she had caught her breath. "Whatever has happened to you?"

Maxine buried her head in Janet's shoulder, and her voice held all the happiness in the world.

"Oh, Janie, Janie, darling! I just got a wire from Bob. He is coming tonight on the midnight train, and we are going to be married tomorrow."

Janet sat down. She was floored! So it had happened at last! She was so happy for tired little Maxine that she wanted to cry, and gathered her to her as though she were a little child. Her eyes filled.

"Oh, honey! God bless you both. I'm so glad."

Maxine was bubbling over with plans.

"You must go with us. We are going to Greenwich. Janie, I couldn't be married without you. You will?"

"Will I?" Janet laughed. "Try to stop me, Mrs. Carney."

Then Janet made her mind up all of a sudden to tell Maxine about Ballard—and how she, too, was in love.

In the middle of the narrative, her voice fell.

"But, Maxine, I don't think he is a marrying man. I'm so afraid he will never ask me to marry him. But he did break down and tell me he loves me."

Maxine looked at Janet, scornfully a moment, and dimpled.

"Janie, any man would love you. Gosh, he would if he isn't blind. If you think Bob wasn't a hard lot fish to land, you should have tried him. He's a twenty-minute egg, if there ever was one."

"What brought the romance to a crisis?" Janet questioned, curiously.

"His cousin's wedding," Maxine laughed. "He saw his favorite cousin married—and to a girl on the stage, too. So he decided to make it a family habit. I guess."

Janet was thoughtful. That was an idea. She grinned, dimpling.

"Um-m. Maybe I can inveigle Ballard into going up to Greenwich tomorrow. Wouldn't that be great?"

Maxine was thrilled with the idea.

"Boy, that's the old groceries, girl! Anyway, we need another witness. Tell him to have a heart—we can't find anyone else."

All during the show, Janet played with the idea. It wouldn't make any difference to Ballard, surely, that she had told Maxine he was her friend since she was leaving the show. Anyway, he could just be a very casual friend.

Ballard met Janet after the show, and he was not in a very enthusiastic mood; but she put her heart and pride in her pocket and laid her head over on his shoulder.

"Bal, will you do something for me?"

"You've never asked me to do you a favor before, shoot. I will," he grinned.

"Well," she swallowed, a little scared, "my girl friend, Maxine, and a nice boy from Pittsburgh, are going up to Greenwich tomorrow to be married. She wants me to go. Will you go, too, and drive us up? It looks as though it's going to be such a nice day."

Much to Janet's surprise, Ballard laughed and readily consented.

"I've never been a witness. I'll be a new thrill. But you're a slave driver, taking me away from my work."

"Nonsense," she laughed happily. "You need a day off."

Janet dressed in her loveliest the next day. All in tan. It was a mild, sunny day, and her heart sang as she got ready for the excitement of seeing Maxine and Bob made man and wife.

Maxine was lovely in blue when Janet and Ballard stopped at the house and met the happy bride and groom-elect. Janet thought Maxine radiantly beautiful. Her face was lit with a soft, sweet smile, and her eyes like bright stars. It was wonderful what love could do to a girl!

Bob was grinning foolishly. And quite as though no one saw him, held her in his arms in the back seat. Ballard, watching them in the mirror of his car, teased now and then, and Janet, cuddled down low beside him, was by turns happy and sad.

Why couldn't this be her wedding day—hers and Ballard's? She studied the dear face beside her and prayed with all her heart that he would some day know how much she really loved him.

For the license. Then the minister's. It was a little white frame house, and the minister and his wife were an old white-haired couple, saintly and sweet in their manner toward the two young people about to embark on the great adventure.

How different, thought Janet, this minister was from her own father. But her own father wasn't really a minister. He wasn't of any denomination. It was too bad men like him classed themselves with men like old Rev. Smith.

Janet's thoughts were rambling as she stood in the little parsonage beside Ballard and heard the old minister intone the sweet words:

"Do you take this woman for your lawful wife?"

Suddenly she looked up at Ballard, and his face, white and strained, was turned to her. On a sudden impulse, she reached out and touched his hand—softly.

His hand closed on hers in a viselike grip. And thus they stood as the ceremony ended.

"I now pronounce you man and wife."

In a daze, Janet saw Bob and Maxine get on the train. They were going to Pittsburgh, and from there somewhere south on their honeymoon.

Then an amazing thing happened.

Janet and Ballard were no more than in the car when he turned and took her face in his shaking hands.

"Dear, will you marry me—now?"

And so that day the wealthy physician, who wasn't a marrying man, and the famous star of the "Blue Laws of 1928," were united in marriage.

Through a maze, Ballard again heard the solemn words:

"What God has joined together, let no man put asunder."

He, Ballard Riley, was actually marrying this little girl. This notorious little singer and dancer, whose name was on the lips of every man on Broadway.

Janet was so numbed with happiness she scarcely remembered the trip back to New York. It seemed like a dream. It was early afternoon when they opened the door of "The March Hare," and his hungry arms closed around the lovely Janet.

She was all his. Never had Ballard been so shaken with passion and love. His little wife was almost afraid of him as his burning kiss poured over her neck, her eyes, her lips.

Releasing herself, tenderly, she looked into his eyes, wondering, and her voice was a scared little whisper.

"You—love me like that?"

Suddenly her arms tightened around him, wildly.

"Ballard, Ballard—oh, my dear, if you ever stop loving me I will die."

It was an afternoon of heaven to them both. When evening came, and time for Janet to go to the theater, Ballard was suddenly brought back to earth. He hated the thought of her going to the theater. But it had to be. She would have to give her two weeks' notice, at least. Furthermore, there were a lot of plans to work out.

It would mean the readjusting and changing of his whole life. When people found he had married the notorious Janet James, there was going to be a lot of fireworks. What it would mean to his career and his position, he scarcely dared dwell upon.

He left her at the stage door, half happy and half worried, promising that he would be there after the show. Janet opened the stage door with her whole soul singing.

But the sight she saw rooted her suddenly to the floor.

Reporters, seven of them. And she knew from the sudden freezing of her blood that they were after her again. Could it be they found out about her marriage to Ballard Riley? Surely not!

"Miss James." It seemed they leaped at her all at once. Have you seen the papers today?"

"No." Her lips were dry and she felt she was going to faint as it was shoved into her hands.

A screaming headline sent everything black before her. And the entire front page was taken up with pictures and the story in big, black type.

BRINGING UP FATHER

By SIDNEY SMITH

The Theater

By FLEET SMITH

NEW YORK, Aug. 30.—"The Fleet's In," it seems to be the best picture Clara Bow ever made. The adheared warming furnace is supported by an excellent cast, James Hall as leading man playing like a real actor, and new comic, Jack Oakie with one of the most irresistible faces on the screen. Malcolm St. Clair directs with all his skill, employing not so much his well-known cleverness and fitness as a tremendously competent speed, naturalness and dramatic punch.

The title speaks for itself. It is the story of sailors on shore leave. It moves along like a downhill. If it doesn't give one of the greatest drawings of the season, all the oldies for criticism will have to be linked. George Marion's title could be good reading aside from the film, just as a column of snapshots. You may be interested to know that Clara in this picture does not disrobe. She's sufficient effective with 'em on.

One other picture of the new list to rave about, while in at mood! It is "The Water Hole," a Zane Grey story featuring Jack Holt and Nancy Carroll. Here is that well-known species, the horse opera, with cowboys, gunplay, physical battle against hardships in the desert. Just as you might have expected. But unexpectedly here also is humor, freshness, originality of situation, appeal not merely to the boys who stamp their feet for westerns on Saturday afternoon but to the adult audience. In the all roundup of films, this youngster will certainly have to be branded with a big O. K.

In this hectic time of pioneering in the sound picture field, the John Barrymore special, "The Tempest," has one unusual claim to a first place. It played originally in the road show class as a $2 special, silent. Then it went to the studio for the addition of synchronized sound effects. Now it is back on Broadway, showing at popular prices at the Rivoli, giving its sound accompaniment for the lower admission charge. That is the first bargain of this nature yet to be released, although Anne Nichols' "Abie's Irish Rose" is scheduled for the same experience.

Twenty Years '08- Ago -'28

Hitching racks have been provided in the Ormsby field on N. Detroit St., where several hundred vehicles can be accommodated during the Home-Coming.

One old Xenia family largely represented at the Home-Coming, whose members have come from widely different sections of our county, are daughters and one son of Lindsay Hoague, who came to Xenia with his wife from Virginia in 1832.

The relic room on W. Main St., is the mecca of hundreds of Home-Comers. Woolley and Piers are two of the most enthusiastic Home-Comers having cancelled this week's engagement at Cleveland to be here.

PLANES MANEUVER OVERHEAD AS GUARDSMEN STAGE SHAM BATTLE

Minus the scheduled aerial sham battle and daylight fireworks, the "aerial parade" staged by twelve planes from Wright Field was repeated over the city late Wednesday afternoon in connection with the observance of "Patriotic Day" of the Home-Coming.

The maneuvers were similar to those of Tuesday and lasted half an hour.

During the "parade" Company L, 147th Infantry, Ohio National Guard, under Captain O. H. Cornwell staged a sham battle in Shawnee Park. The defensive force was entrenched north of the park and the attackers were deployed as skirmishers near the auditorium. The attackers advanced in skirmish lines, both sides adding to the realism by using rapid fire with blank cartridges.

While the stunt flying was in progress, one of the more daring pilots went into a nose dive, dropping such a great distance that there were many reports he had actually crashed near Cedarville. These were erroneous.

Soaring over the heads of the several thousand people in the Park Wednesday night, flashlight pictures of the gathering were taken by Wright Field flyers from an airplane. Capt. Albert W. Stevens, photographer, made the pictures.

TWO MORE DAMAGE SUITS RESULT OF SAME AUTO CRASH

Two more suits growing out of an auto accident on the Yellow Springs Pike at the Possum Road intersection last May 9 have been filed in the Clark County Common Pleas Court.

These suits are for $1,000 damages each and were brought against Sandy Pettiford, colored, Yellow Springs, by Charles Y. Quick and his daughter, Ellen Louise Quick, Springfield.

Two days ago Mabel Quick, Springfield, was named defendant in two damage suits totalling $2,390, filed in Greene County Common Pleas Court as a result of the same accident.

The suits were filed by Sandy Pettiford and his minor daughter, Dora, 7, Mr. Pettiford seeks $300 judgment for damages to his auto and a doctor's bill for his child, while his daughter asks $2,000 damages for alleged personal injuries, claiming to be disfigured for life.

The actions filed in Clark County preceded the suits filed in Greene County.

SEND IN BILLS

All individuals and firms having bills outstanding against the Greene County Home-Coming Association are asked by Miss Josephine Wolf, in charge of Home-Coming headquarters, to turn these bills in at once to headquarters in order that all financial transactions in connection with the celebration may be wound up as speedily as possible.

JEFFERSON SCHOOL OPENING MONDAY; TEACHERS EMPLOYED

Jefferson Twp. Centralized Schools will open Monday morning, September 3. Only a morning session will be held for registration and assignments and school will be dismissed in time for children to get home for lunch. Buses will collect the children at the usual time.

The following teachers will have charge this year:

Mary Morris, first and second grades; Gladys Bales, second and third grades; Lucille Garringer, fourth and fifth grades; Hazel Smith, fifth and sixth grades; Wiley Manker, general science and geography; Thelma Fisher, history and home economics; Lella Lemar, English and Latin; L. H. Downing, manual training, science and orchestra; Elizabeth Ankeny, vocal music; C. A. Devoe, superintendent.

All children will be transported in motor trucks this year, the following drivers having been employed:

Route 1, O. E. White; Route 2, J. F. Baker; Route 3, George Shirki; Route 4, Floyd Smith; Route 5, Howard Harness; Route 6, Foy Gerard; Route 7, Samuel Adams; Route 8, Will Adams; Route 9, Jesse Ary; Route 10, Harold Cline.

Ralph Lewis continues as janitor.

About fifty additional children will attend this year because of transfers of territory, most of whom will come from Blooming-ton.

The board of education has made several needed improvements this summer, including weather stripping the windows of most exposed rooms; decorating grade school rooms and office; repairing and laying new cement walks.

The work of changing the auditorium so it could also be used as a gymnasium has also been completed this summer. Patrons will have a chance on opening day to see how the auditorium will appear seated with the new chairs. It is hoped to have a formal opening and dedication of this improvement soon after the opening of school.

All patrons and friends of the school are invited to attend the opening on Monday morning. An inspiring beginning is hoped for as the school begins a new school year.

Ray Hite, president; F. A. Charles, clerk; Chas. H. Cline, Ray Garringer and Charley Hollingsworth are the present members of the board of education.

STUDEBAKER President Eight 30,000 miles in # 26,326 minutes!

Greatest endurance record in history of transportation

BETWEEN July 21 and August 9, four Studebaker President Eights—all fully equipped, regular factory production cars—triumphed over the severest test ever given any automobile. This 30,000 mile run—a record distance achieved in record time—was conducted under the close and constant supervision of the American Automobile Association which certified each car to be a strictly stock model. In fact, all four motors and chassis were selected, not by Studebaker, but by A. A. A. officials who picked them at random from the assembly line at the Studebaker factory. If not chosen for this test, these regular factory Presidents would have gone out to dealers and you might have bought one of them at any Studebaker showroom.

by American Automobile Association officials, not a single seal was broken during the 60,000 miles of running. These official seals were placed on the manifold, engine head and carburetor of each car.

Studebaker's new and exclusive ball bearing spring shackles went through the entire 120,000 miles of running without a single adjustment, without the addition of any lubricant, and were functioning perfectly at the end of the run.

What it proves

The Studebaker President's new record of 30,000 miles in 26,326 minutes is a feat unapproached in the history of transportation. It proves beyond doubt or question that The President Eight is an expression of engineering genius without peer in the automotive world. It is evidence of the inexhaustible resources of Studebaker performance—of high quality materials, precision manufacture, skilled workmanship and rigid inspections.

Why be satisfied with less?

You can pay more than Studebaker prices, but in no other car at any price can you buy more stamina or more finely balanced performance than in Studebaker's President Eight. And back of every One-Profits Studebaker is 76 years of manufacturing integrity.

Don't wait until November 6 to select your President—DO IT NOW!

Average 68 miles per hour

All four Studebakers—two President Eight roadsters and two President Eight sedans—completed 30,000 miles each at better than mile-a-minute speed.

Both roadsters completed 30,000 miles in less than 27,000 minutes, averaging better than 68 miles per hour for 19 days and 13 nights of continuous driving.

The two sedans averaged 63.99 and 64.15 miles per hour respectively for this tremendous distance.

The fastest thousand miles of each roadster was the thirtieth—71.67 and 69.65 miles per hour! Studebaker Presidents improve with use.

GREENE COUNTY HOME-COMING ENDS

AIRPORTS URGED TO DEVELOP AVIATION BY FINAL SPEAKER

Commerce Department
Official Heard By Home-Comers

"The establishment of an airport in a city, measures that city, just as the sea and lakes measure the city located on their shores. An airport opens the way to commerce, the leading factor for true growth," declared A. Pendleton Talliaferro, airport promoter, who addressed the Wednesday night audience in Shawnee Park auditorium.

Substituting for Assistant Commerce Secretary William P. MacCracken, Jr., in charge of aviation, Mr. Talliaferro delivered an inspiring talk on aviation. His talk was the closing feature of "Patriotic Day" the last of the four-day celebration for Greene County home-comers.

Mr. Talliaferro, who assisted in bottling up the Austrian fleet in the Adriatic, is now engaged in airport promotion work for the U. S. Department of Commerce.

"It is particularly fitting that Xenia and other cities in this part of the country should be so vitally interested in aviation since near here was his birthplace of flying," he said. He followed the growth of aviation, step by step, from the historic flight of the Wright brothers at Kitty Hawk, N. C., through the World War to the present.

He cited the pioneering endeavors of Curtiss, the Wrights and other builders of the aviation maneuvers in the World War and declared that it was not until 1923 that the industry was placed on a sound basis, reaching a dramatic climax with the flight of Lindbergh.

"Aviation cannot progress without the proper ground facilities," he said, and it needs vision and patriotic assistance. He stressed the industry as a national defense and declared that the true peak and scope of aviation cannot be estimated.

Talliaferro went to Dayton following his talk and was a guest of Howard S. Smith, past governor of the Ohio Kiwanis District, who was a guest at the Xenia meeting. They made an inspection of Wright Field, Thursday before Talliaferro left for Washington, D. C.

Judge Benson Hough, Columbus, presided over the program. The Rev. H. B. McElroy, pastor of Second U. P. Church, closed the program with the benediction.

Following the formal program there was dancing in the auditorium until midnight, under auspices of Phi Delta Kappa fraternity, so that the merry-makers actually wound up the four-day home-coming program.

Tired and happy Xenians devoted the park late in the evening as the 1928 home-coming became history. Perfect weather, although extremely warm, smiled on the celebration all four days and the programs were carried out perfectly, without interruption.

FATHER WILL HANG FOR KILLING GIRL

WALLA WALLA, Wash., Aug. 30.—The scaffold on which Wallace C. Gaines, convicted of murdering his daughter Sylvia, is scheduled to die Friday was being erected at the state prison here today.

Prison authorities have moved Gaines from cell block No. 5 to cell block No. 1, which is but a short distance from the gallows. This is the last action taken by officials prior to an execution.

Gaines, a World War veteran and member of a prominent Seattle family, is accused of slaying his daughter two years ago. Her body was found on the shores of Lake Union, nearby was a rock, the weapon apparently used by the murderer.

The daughter, Sylvia, was a graduate of Smith College. She had been living with her mother, who was divorced from Gaines, in Massachusetts before she came to Seattle to visit her father.

NEW YORKER WINS WRIGLEY PRIZE

TORONTO, Aug. 30.—Evel Herlie, 20, of New York City, is $10,000 richer today as the result of her victory over fifty-three competitors in the ten-mile Wrigley swim for women here yesterday.

Miss Herlie's time of 5 hours, 34 minutes and 36 seconds was about three minutes better than that of her nearest rival, Olive Gatterdam, 16, of Seattle, Wash., who took second prize money of $3,000. Gertrude Ederle, the first woman to conquer the English Channel, failed to come in on the money. She finished sixth. All five prizes were taken by American women, who are eligible to enter the men's fifteen-mile marathon next week.

BODIES OF TWO FLYERS RECOVERED

FLYER KILLED

Lieut. Edwin M. Ronne, manager of the municipal airport at Buffalo, N. Y., above, and Mabel M. Merrill, manager of Curtiss Field, Long Island, N. Y., were killed in a crash on their way from Buffalo to Long Island, where they were headed to deliver Colonel Lindbergh's Falcon plane. Scores of planes took up a search.

THREE LOST AS STEEL COMPANY SHIP UPSETS

Steamer Overturns;
Twenty Saved By Swimming.

PITTSBURGH, Aug. 30.—The steamboat Alliquippa overturned early this morning while maneuvering in the Ohio River. Three of the twenty-three persons aboard the river craft are believed missing while twenty were rescued or swam ashore.

The persons believed missing are: Christina Denlock, chambermaid on the boat.

William Atkins, watchman. Unidentified deck hand. The Alliquippa, which was a steel towing steamer, was maneuvering in mid-stream preparatory to picking up a tow of barges loaded with 6,000 tons of steel at the time of the accident.

A pipe break which flooded the forward compartment was believed by officers of the Alliquippa to have been the cause of the upset.

The accident occurred opposite the Alliquippa plant of the Jones and Laughlin Steel Corporation. The steamer was one of the steel company's two steamers.

Panic reigned as the boat careened sideways and turned completely over, bottom up. Many of the crew aboard the steamer were hurled into the river.

While members of the crew rushed madly for life preservers as the boat listed in the water, Captain Norman "Bucky" Jones with a few of his assistants attempted to arouse the two chambermaids. They succeeded in throwing a life preserver to one of them before the boat finally lurched up side down.

Immediately following the upset rescue crews made their way to the overturned steamer in an effort to locate the three missing persons. Plant employees of the Jones and Laughlin Corporation started to drag the river.

Efforts were also made to raise the capsized vessel by boring holes through the keel to admit air.

The Alliquippa, which holds the record for steel towing from Pittsburgh to Memphis, is 164 feet long with a beam of thirty-two feet.

HALT SHOOTING BY COAST GUARD

TOLEDO, O., Aug. 30.—Promiscuous firing upon pleasure craft in Lake Erie by coast guard boats in the future will be entirely eliminated, it was promised here today by Lieutenant M. W. Rasmussen, commandant of the patrol in this district, following an investigation yesterday.

Lieut. Rasmussen is continuing his investigation today among the various islands in the western portion of Lake Erie, where shells from coast guard boats are said to have landed.

Lieut. Rasmussen also went so far as to declare that he has a plan, which he would announce in the near future, whereby pleasure craft would not even be hailed by the patrol boats.

The hearing of evidence pertaining to the stopping and firing on private yachts was opened by charges preferred by Walter S. Hayes, Toledo manufacturer, to the effect that his craft was fired on August 9, by the CG-2365 in command of Machinist Mate Vaughn W. Mumford.

BELIEVE AVIATORS CRASHED INTO HILL DURING HEAVY FOG

Wrecked Plane Was Located From Air By Searchers

NEW YORK, Aug. 30.—The bodies of Mabel M. Merrill, veteran Curtiss Field flyer, and Edward Ronne, head of the Buffalo airport, were found today in the woods near Milford, Pa., where their plane crashed while en route from Buffalo to New York.

Both bodies were lying about forty feet from the Falcon plane which had smashed into a thick underbrush.

Neither body was burned. It is believed the two aviators were hurled clear of the plane.

News of the finding of the bodies was conveyed to the Merrill home in Hempstead, L. I., shortly before noon by C. S. ("Casey") Jones, head of Curtiss Field, who had been at Milford directing the search for the bodies.

The charred wreckage of the plane was found in a thickly wooded spot near Milford late yesterday after a long search in which at least fifty airplanes took part. Search for the bodies had been deferred until this morning.

"I believe Merrill drove into the side of a mountain at top speed," said Jones this morning. "It must have been so foggy he was just flying by instinct. The gas tank must have let go and set the ship afire."

Merrill, one of the best known of American aviators and a chum of Lindbergh, and Ronne had frequently made the air trip from Buffalo to New York and Jones, as well as other flyers, are of the opinion they must have got caught in a dense fog while over the flat ridge of the Kittany Mountains in the Pond Eddy section near Milford.

The wrecked plane was sighted by J. Nelson Kelly, one of the many flyers engaged in the intensive search. Last evening's darkness descended before Casey Jones and a party of flyers and farmers could penetrate the crazy and wooded mountainside to reach the wreckage.

From Milford word came that the solitary eye-witness of events just before the crash was Miss Fannie Craft, a farmerette. She said that about five o'clock Monday afternoon she saw the orange colored plane passing over her place.

"It was foggy," she related, "I noticed it during a rift in the fog. I was standing in the back yard. I was about to enter the house when I heard the sound of a crash. Then there was an explosion."

She tried to telephone the news to the outside world but her telephone was out of order and has remained in this condition.

YOUTH DROWNS
HURRICANEVILLE, O., Aug. 30.—Having waded beyond his depth in Big Stillwater Creek near here, Robert West, 14, was dead here today from drowning. His body was recovered.

VICTIM OF BUTCHER BOY HAD MORE THAN 100 WOUNDS IN BODY

LOS ANGELES, Cal., Aug. 30.—More than a hundred wounds were found on the body of Mrs. Myrtle Mellus, it was disclosed today following testimony of A. F. Wagner, county autopsy surgeon, at the trial of Leo P. Kelley, charged with slaying the society matron.

Her husband, Frank Mellus, wealthy sportsman related how he returned home from a fishing trip and found his wife's battered body lying on a bed. Just before he entered the house, he stated he heard a thud, "as if a man's body was falling."

Kelley was discovered hiding in a maid's closet a short time later by police.

A former butcher, Kelley admitted that he had been an admirer of Mrs. Mellus for the past five years. He ate breakfast with Mrs. Mellus the day of the murder, according to a maid's testimony, who said that her mistress and Kelley were drinking when she left the house for the day.

Kelley denies any knowledge of the slaying. He said he ran to the closet and hid when he heard footsteps at the door.

Mellus testified that he knew nothing of the purported relationship between Kelley and his wife. He declared he had known Kelley for "a long time" but said he doubted if he would have recognized him if he had seen him in any other garb than a white uniform of a butcher.

PATTERSON HEIR SUED BY WIFE

Dayton, O., society has been startled by the divorce petition of Evelyn H. Patterson, brought against her husband, Frederick Beck Patterson, charging gross neglect of duty and cruelty. Patterson, big game hunter and sportsman, is the only son of the late John H. Patterson, founder of the National Cash Register Company and has succeeded his father as president of the company. The Pattersons have two adopted children.

SENATOR ROBINSON WILL BE NOTIFIED ON THURSDAY NIGHT

Elaborate Ceremonies Arranged To Honor Democratic Vice-Presidential Nominee; Will Give Southern Keynote

HOT SPRINGS, Ark., Aug. 30.—In a ceremony marking a new epoch in the political history of the south, Senator Joseph T. Robinson of Arkansas, tonight will be formally notified of his selection as the running mate of Governor "Al" Smith.

The notification will be in a picturesque natural amphitheater formed by the parallel ranges in the southern tip of the Ozarks which form the valley of Hot Springs' main street. Squarely in the bottom of the valley, from a vast platform of redolent Arkansas pine, Senator Robinson will deliver his acceptance speech. It is to be the keynote of the campaign in the solid south.

Never before has Arkansas given a candidate to the national ticket of a major party. Not since 1856 has the south had a representative on a national ballot.

This is the history behind the enthusiasm of the day, Arkansas is here to honor her most distinguished favorite son. Hot Springs has outdone itself as a town of 25,000 persons to pay tribute to the "Joe" she sent to congress in 1902. The south is here to honor the statesman who won for her a place in the national theater of politics after a dark house of almost seventy years.

Over the speakers' platform, about which seats have been arranged for 25,000, hang twin lithographs of "Al" and "Joe," but also—

CAPITAL IS HOT

WASHINGTON, Aug. 30.—Washington sweltered again today under a terrific heat wave.

Six cases of prostrations were treated at hospitals. Several government departments closed early.

The temperature hovered around 96.

WRECK KILLS ONE

TOLEDO, O., Aug. 30.—Traffic had been resumed today on the Wheeling and Lake Erie Railroad at Oak Harbor, near here, which had been tied up by a wreck yesterday. An unknown train rider was killed and sixteen freight cars derailed. Nearly a quarter of a mile of track was torn up.

FIRST HEAT DEATH

WILMINGTON, O., Aug. 30.—Lewis Hiles, 35, was dead here today, the first victim of the heat this year in Clinton County. Hiles died a few minutes after he suffered a sunstroke while working in a stone quarry here yesterday.

GANGLAND STILL MENACES AKRON PROBER

AKRON, Aug. 30.—Gangland is still determined to "get" Councilman Kyle Ross, special investigator of vice and crime conditions here.

Ross made this known today. One of the "undercover" men has advised him, he says, that unless he "keeps his mouth shut" attempts to assassinate him, which have been made repeatedly, will continue.

TORNADO KILLS NINE HURTS 140 ITALIANS

MONZA, Italy, Aug. 30.—A terrific tornado which tore a path through this city took a toll of nine dead and 140 injured and caused tremendous property damage.

The tornado lasted for fifteen minutes. Trees were uprooted. Houses were unroofed. Chimneys toppled. Streets were flooded as water poured forth from pipes torn asunder by the storm.

Hall stones, some as large as walnuts, added to the plight of the stricken populace.

A church spire weighing a hundred tons toppled to the ground under the impact of the wind. A fifty ton statue in the spire crashed through the roof of the church. Fortunately, no one was in the church at the time and there were no casualties there.

Three thousand birds were found dead after the storm had subsided.

MILITARY PARADE FEATURES PROGRAM HERE ON WEDNESDAY

Patriotic Bodies Stage Pageant In City Streets

Celebration of the closing day of the Home-Coming as "Patriotic Day" was featured by a military parade over downtown streets, participated in by military and allied organizations of Greene County early Wednesday afternoon.

The marchers seemed to feel the vibration of patriotic feeling in the atmosphere, responded quickly to the tactical orders of their commanders and as a body moved with the precision of a smooth-running war machine.

They were kept busy smiling and saluting and also saluted smartly as they passed the reviewing stand on E. Main St., where many Home-Coming officials were gathered.

Mounted on horses, Dr. B. R. McClellan, grand marshal of the parade, and Gen. B. W. Hough, Columbus, presiding officer of the day led the procession with Sheriff Ohmer Tate and Former Sheriff Morris Sharp, Legionnaires, also mounted, acting as aides.

Next in line was a decorated auto bearing members of the Grand Army of the Republic. There were only seven Civil War veterans in the machine.

The G. A. R. was followed by the Women's Relief Corps in five decorated autos. Next came the O. S. and S. O. Home Cadet Band, thirty-five members of J. P. Foody Post, No. 95, American Legion; sixty-five Home Cadets; seventy-two Home girls; the Xenia Municipal Band; ambulance of Greene County Chapter, American Red Cross; a Red Cross float illustrating methods of life saving; sixty members of Company L, 147th Infantry, Ohio National Guard; an eccentric Ford and crew in automobiles.

Assembling at the old Central High School grounds on Market St., the procession moved south on Collier to Main St.; marched west on Main to West St.; north on West to Church St.; east on Church to Detroit St.; south on Detroit to Second St.; east on Second to Whittman St.; north on Whittman to Main St.; west on Main to Green St.; and then to Market St., where it disbanded for the flag and flagpole dedication ceremony on the Court House lawn.

While Jack Bowsher, Kingston, was enraptured with the huge still on display, someone removed a purse containing $11, and some papers from his hip pocket.

H. E. C. Rowe, field manager of the Ohio Newspapers Association is in charge of a display of newspapers from all over Ohio.

Mess lines smacking of war days were in evidence when crowds overran the restaurants yesterday.

Much interest was displayed in the domestic Swiss cheese contest, which John Pengacher, Trail, Holmes County, won after the cheeses were cut into so the judges could award the prize. The Deis-Pertig Company, Dover, won second prize.

SMITH WILL INVADE WEST NEXT MONTH

NEW YORK, Aug. 30.—Gov. Al Smith's speaking tour of the west will begin about the middle of September, it was indicated today. Latest reports in railroad circles were that a finely equipped train will be en route to the west by September 19 for an eleven-day trip, with Omaha, Neb., as the first stop.

Seven cities, according to this report, will hear the governor—Chicago, St. Louis, Omaha, Salt Lake City, Helena, Mont., Colorado Springs and one point in Idaho.

Governor Smith may visit Yellowstone Park but it is said he would not include the Pacific Coast in his itinerary. He will return east in time to make a speech in Rochester on October 1.

These plans, however, are not official, no formal announcement concerning his speaking tour having come from the governor.

KELLOGG VISITS IRISH PRESIDENT

DUBLIN, Aug. 30.—American Secretary of State Frank B. Kellogg arrived in Ireland this afternoon to return the official visit of President William T. Cosgrave, of the Irish Free State council, to the United States. Secretary Kellogg accompanied by Mrs. Kellogg and President Cosgrave arrived at Kingstown from Havre upon the U. S. cruiser Detroit. There they were welcomed by representatives of the Dublin government and by American Minister Sterling. They were tumultuously received by the populace of Kingstown when they went ashore.

JOHNSON BENEFITS FROM LANDSLIDE

SAN FRANCISCO, Aug. 30.—As belated return of California's primary election in today, the victory of Senator Hiram W. Johnson over Charles H. Randall, Los Angeles, for the nomination of United States Senator, became a veritable landslide. In 8,107 of 9,682 precincts tabulated the vote was Johnson, 585,659; Randall, 56,000.

Latest returns indicated the nomination of Republican incumbents to congress in eleven congressional districts.

FOODY LEGION POST PRESENTS FLAG AND POLE TO CITIZENS

Military Ceremony Attends Unveiling Of Memorial

Impressive ceremonies attended the unveiling of a flag and flag pole, gift of Joseph P. Foody Post, No. 95, American Legion, to Greene County Wednesday afternoon as one of the most interesting features of the observance of the fourth and final day of the Home-Coming as "Patriotic Day."

Opening the exercises, Dr. A. C. Messenger, chairman of the program committee, introduced Gen. Benson W. Hough, Columbus, himself a World War veteran, as presiding officer of the day.

Gen. Hough declared "It is my conviction that veterans of any war and all wars as well as citizens may well pause and may well participate in any ceremony as we have here at this time."

The new flag pole is located in the middle of the South Court House walk, mounted in a granite base, and the dedication ceremony was held with various patriotic organizations grouped on the lawn about the memorial.

The presentation speech was made by Sheriff Ohmer Tate, a past commander of the Legion, while the gift was accepted in the name of Greene County by Herman Eavey, president of the board of county commissioners.

In between the speech-making, the flag was unveiled by a Civil War veteran and a Boy Scout and raised on the staff while the O. S. and S. O. Home Cadet Band played the "Star Spangled Banner."

Then all military organizations and citizens stood at attention and faced the east for one minute of silence out of respect to the memory of departed soldiers.

Prayer by the Rev. W. H. Tilford closed the exercises.

PROPOSAL TO BOOST AERIAL DEFENSE IS NOT GIVEN SUPPORT

Retiring General Would Build Up Air Reserve

WASHINGTON, Aug. 30.—The proposal of Brig. Gen. Alfred W. Bjornstad that every commercial airplane pilot be made an army or navy reservist and that commercial planes be produced as potential weapons of war found little support today from the chiefs of the war and navy departments.

His idea is to build up a strong military reserve because he envisages the airplane as a vital factor in national defense.

After a distinguished military career, Bjornstad, known as the richest man in the army, retires tomorrow.

"All pilots should be given licenses the same as the pilots of ships at sea," he said. "One of the conditions of securing an airplane license should be that the pilot be made a member of one of the air corps reserves."

"Second—all aircraft licenses to use the government always must first be approved by the government as to design so that the army and navy departments can influence slight modifications that may be necessary in order that the airplane can be converted into various kinds of aircraft for war purposes."

Col. C. B. Robbins, acting secretary of war, said "I quite agree with General Bjornstad that every effort should be made to tie in the civilian airplane manufacture with that of army plane production so that in the event of war commercial manufacturing facilities could be turned at once to production of war aircraft."

"As the general's suggestion that every civilian pilot be incorporated in the reserve corps, that is a debatable question. Many civilian flyers could not pass the rigid physical examination required of army aviators."

FOODY LEGION POST PRESENTS FLAG AND POLE TO CITIZENS

towering eighty-five feet above the level of the sidewalk, was erected under a contract with The George Dodds and Sons Granite Co.

Sheriff Tate, in presenting the gift to Greene County, said: "This week Greene County has been enjoying and celebrating a Home-Coming. Twenty years ago the first Home-Coming was held, pleasant memories of which have lingered from that time until today.

"But meanwhile a Home-Coming of a different kind was held in this city. Nine years ago the men and women from this county who had served in the World War were welcomed home and have never since forgotten the genuineness of that welcome and the splendid entertainment of every kind given them by the people of this community.

"Shortly thereafter a number of these ex-service men and women associated themselves together in a post of the American Legion called the Joseph P. Foody Post No. 95, American Legion of Ohio, and since that time it has been the desire and the purpose of that Post to in some way show its appreciation for that splendid Home-Coming in 1919. These Legionnaires have, for God and country, associated themselves together to promote peace and good-will on earth; to make right the master of might; to uphold and defend the constitution of the United States of America; to maintain law and order; to safeguard and transmit to posterity the principles of justice, freedom and democracy. The Legionnaires feel that their services did not end with the end of the World War but that they must continue to serve their country in time of peace just as they did in war, and with that purpose in mind they are endeavoring to carry on, and to instill in the hearts of all the above principles.

"Furthermore, in dedicating itself to the stalwart principle of service—service to the country and to the free-born people who dwell within its broad boundaries, it is the purpose of the Legion to work for the promotion of a better citizenship; to foster and perpetuate ideal Americanism. The Legion has found a fertile field for its endeavors in community upbuilding. Every post of the Legion has been urged to perform some worthwhile task each year which will benefit their respective communities. The Legionnaires have responded and have thrown their full strength into this work, and as a result many communities now have advantages they did not possess before. Community center buildings have been built, educational activities stimulated, airports, athletic fields, and public parks established in this work for community betterment. Wherever local government units find a civic problem they find a Legion Post standing ready to aid them in its solution.

"And so today in presenting this flag and flag-pole to the citizens of Greene County, we feel that we are accomplishing three things—we are expressing our appreciation of the Home-Coming given to us in 1919 by the gift of this American flag, symbolizing as it does the principles for which the Legion stands, and with the knowledge that it will be a benefit to the community as a constant reminder of those principles of justice, freedom and democracy for which we are fighting, and for which in time of need we will always be ready to fight.

"The bronze tablet on this pedestal reads as follows: Presented to the citizens of Greene County by Joseph P. Foody Post, No. 95, American Legion, Home-Coming 1928.

"I now take great pleasure in presenting, on behalf of Joseph P. Foody Post No. 95, this flag and flag-pole to the president of the board of County Commissioners of this county."

In his acceptance speech, Commissioner Herman Eavey declared: "As president of the board of County Commissioners of this county, and on behalf of the county, it gives me a great deal of pleasure to accept this beautiful flag and flag-pole.

"It has always been as it is now the great pleasure of the County Commissioners to co-operate as closely as possible in every way with those who saw service in all of our wars.

"We have always been proud in the thought that this county supplied more soldiers for the Civil War than any other county in this state in proportion to its population. And as the years have gone by we have grown to appreciate and love the veterans of that war more and more, and are glad to have had the members of the Grand Army of the Republic housed with us in this Court House.

"We have also been most interested in the Boy Scouts, and we are glad to know that they have such a strong and growing organization in this county for we know that upon our boys and girls depends the future welfare and safety of our country.

"We therefore think it most appropriate that at this occasion your memorial tablet has been unveiled by a member of the G. A. R. and a Boy Scout. Today, between glorious memories of the past and hopes for a splendid future, we recognize the American Legion as the representative organization of the veterans of the World War, and as such organization the work that it has done and that it will continue to do in support of the fundamental principles of this government, which you as representatives of the Legion set forth a few moments ago, and we recognize that your organization is a great force for service in this community as well as in every community throughout our country.

"We accept this gift in the same spirit in which it was given and assure you and the people of this community that it will be our sincere pleasure as well as our duty to protect it and to see that it ever floats high in the air where all can see as a symbol of those principles of justice, freedom and democracy on which the constitution of our country is based."

SAVING NATION FROM SLUMP

All Americans—factory workers, clerks, business men or housewives—are indebted to advertising for the unprecedented prosperity that has raised the average standard of living in this country since 1920 to a point never before achieved in history.

This is the view of Paul M. Mazur, New York banker and economist, whose recent book "American Prosperity" won him recognition as one of the nation's foremost business analysts.

It was advertising, primarily, that revived American business from the slump of 1920 and accelerated the current era of prosperity, Mr. Mazur asserts in an article published in The Golden Book Magazine.

Mass production in industry had been developed to an abnormal volume during the war, he points out, leaving America with the greatest machinery of industrial production ever known, but with a market abruptly curtailed, when peace came.

Industry faced two alternatives. Either it had to create a market for its increased output or reduce the output, dismantle machinery, lower wages and return the country to its pre-war standards. The only profitable solution was to increase the demand of consumers.

The results, Mr. Mazur shows, was that products which never before had been advertised to the general public—such as plumbing fixtures, automobile accessories, furnaces, household hardware, paints, brick, telephones and roofing—began to appear in the newspapers and popular magazines where before they had been confined to the trade papers. Advertising appropriations of all kinds were increased.

The result was that the advertising, coupled with intensified salesmanship and improved distribution, increased the demand of the public for better wages of all kinds, factories were again speeded up to war-time production and wages were maintained near their war levels, thus enabling the worker to purchase more and better articles.

"The unfortunate experience of those companies that have discarded advertising expense as a needless encroachment upon profits is a negative but nevertheless impressive argument in favor of advertising," the writer points out. "On the other hand, the sustained and increasing success of business institutions that have expressed their belief in advertising must be accepted, in part at least, as positive argument for the value of the printed public appeal."

Judging by the way people yelled at the conventions, many of them have had something in their hip pockets besides their purses.

The newspapers advertise for sealed proposals, but some girls take 'em either sealed or unsealed.

Just in case nobody remembers to mention it between now and November: Get out and vote.

Prejudice is what many an orator refers to in his speeches as "principle."

CONTEST

The spirit of contest never dies in human kind. Comes now a French barber who gives himself a good, twice-over shave in 27 seconds. He sets this out as the world's record. As far as the writer who never shaves himself, is concerned, it always will be.

We have had contests in about everything we can think of. Flag pole sitting, a pleasant diversion for those who like it, has faded out in popularity. In fact, it was never taken up by any considerable number of folks, most of whom prefer golf, although flag pole sitting offers a much more inspiring view of the landscape and gives ample time for reflection.

HAIR

Speaking of contests, Chicago has a woman who claims to have the longest hair in the world. She is Mrs. Ethel Postlethwaite, and her braids measure five feet seven inches. That's seven inches longer than the hair of an Irish girl, living in London, who thought she held the record. The Chicago woman has a daughter whose hair, at birth, was long enough to put a ribbon on. Tie that.

LABOR

Labor, since man began to work, has passed through stages. First there was the individualist—every man for himself. Then there was specialization—groups doing one thing and other groups doing other things. Then there was exploitation—large numbers working for one man or a small group of men without much regard for hours and wages and comfort. And now we have the stage of co-operation—both employees and employers recognizing the mutual advantage of helping each other. As an outstanding example of the age and stage of co-operation, we have the General Motors corporation taking out $400,000,000 worth of life insurance on 200,000 workers. The expense will be shared by the company and the men.

COST OF LIVING

Chemistry is always creating new values. Market prices, based on scarcity of production, are destined to be upset by tremendous new production methods made possible by chemical engineers. Rapidly we are learning how to manufacture in vaster quantities and more cheaply. Steinmetz once said electricity might some day be generated so cheaply as to be almost devoid of price. Will the chemists some day do this for food?

The Diary of a New Yorker

By CLARK KINNAIRD

NEW YORK.—There is only one hotel in New York in which women are forbidden to smoke, the Martha Washington. Smoking by women is not common; but there are still persons who stare every time they see one puffing a cigaret in public. I am one of those persons.

Such women as are glad there is a "new freedom" owe a lot to Irene Castle, whom Broadway has about forgotten. She is now a Chicago matron. Mrs. Castle was the first woman conspicuous in the public eye to bob her hair; and she was one of the first to smoke unashamedly as if she had a right to it she liked. She also had considerable to do with changing dancing into what it is today, although the graceful creations of the Castle are far from the gymnastic "Black Bottom" and "Charleston."

Speaking of dancing, there is a distinct trend back toward the romantic waltz in "Rosalind" and other Broadway dance palaces.

And the biggest sellers in sheet music are sentimental songs.

Youth seems to be recovering from its jazz jag and finding that the steps mother and dad liked when they were young are nice to dance, after all.

Frank McLearn, Central Press New York writer, after seeing "The Front Page," a comedy of newspaper life, by Ben Hecht and Charles MacArthur, reports:

"There remains yet to be written a newspaper play that gives a truthful picture of what goes on in the city room of a metropolitan daily. Perhaps, and this because newspaper men delight to dramatizing any situation, one never shall be written. But for an approach, for the picture of the inside workings of a daily sheet as most newspaper men would have it, this play is the best yet. And it will play the best yet. And it is talking about it."

"Here is the pressroom in the criminal courts building, Chicago, with a group of swearing, poker-playing, cynical reporters gathered about. They are smart, their wisecracks, and these fellows should really be working for a humor magazine. Keep the audience on its toes. 'What next, you wonder?'"

"Everything considered, this is an entertaining play. It's a virtue. There is no lack of swearing, no lack of action, nor of plot."

A lot of readers of this column indicate in letters to me that New York can be seen in one day. And it can.

Here's a tour of the biggest city in the world that can be made in less than 12 hours for less than $4, and gives the visitor an intimate and comprehensive idea of what it's like:

1. Take Broadway-South Ferry surface car from Times Square to Battery Park.

2. From park take all around Manhattan Island from this trip, walk north on Broadway to Woolworth building and go up to the tower.

3. From Woolworth building go to City Hall park and take taxi to Washington Square. Get some glimpses of Greenwich Village and return to Square.

4. From Washington Square, Fifth Avenue-St. Nicholas avenue bus. Get out at 58th street, peek into lobbies and lounges of the Sherry-Netherland or Savoy-Plaza apartment hotels, most expensive apartments in the world. Then walk east to Park Avenue for a glimpse of the "Gold Coast" and on down the East River to see the tenements. Return by taxi or foot to Columbus Circle and walk down Broadway as the great electric signs begin to blaze.

5. Take B-M-T subway from Times Square to Coney Island. Return by boat.

How to Achieve Beauty

By MME. HELENA RUBINSTEIN

There are six outstanding ages of beauty—the first of them beginning at infancy and leading through childhood.

I wonder how many mothers, busy with diets and vitamins, realize that it is a part of their duty to build beauty along with health. Not many, I fancy. And it is a conclusion I have arrived at with the deepest regret.

Every mother shampoo her child's hair regularly, but does she do it with an eye to the future—or merely as a literal, un-inspired part of her maternal duties? Usually the latter—and as a result, what do we find in later years? Short ends, unhealthy growth and dimmed lustre. A child's hair grows rapidly, but despite the inches that are clipped off from season to season, the scalp is not kept stimulated and healthy, the future growth is menaced.

Soap should never be used on a child's hair until it has been melted to a liquid form. Caustic soap, that is, soap containing too much alkali, is bad, melted or not. And with the layman's lack of knowledge of the matter, it is far safer to advise in general the use of the same herbal shampoo which you use for your own shampoo. Be sure the water used is "soft." If you have any doubt about it, add one part borax to every fifteen parts water.

On the subject of childhood, I want to say a few words about the effect contagious illnesses have upon hair growth. After fevers, the scalp becomes dry and unproductive, the glands spasmodic in their release of the oil necessary for scalp health and hair growth, and, as a consequence, split and falling hair, and not infrequently, a thin uneven, straggly growth results. The precaution is to clip the hair short. Then, when the child is released from the sick room, twice a week, massage the scalp with lukewarm olive or balsam oil. Tie up the head, and in the morning shampoo with a good herbal shampoo. It will not be long before the unhealthy condition completely disappears under this treatment.

Eyes are another neglected part of childhood beauty. On the nursery medicine shelf there should be individual eye cups for every child in the house. One bottle of a good eye lotion will do for all, and teach your child to preserve not only sight, but the beauty of his eyes by washing them each day with the little eye cup. However, it is important to select a mild lotion; perhaps the best and simplest is a mild boracic acid solution. This one precaution may save untold eye trouble in later years.

The teeth, too, must be considered not only for cleanliness, but beauty. A semi-annual visit to the dentist will care for this adequately. He will advise upon the proper methods of cleaning the baby teeth, and as a child grows older, he will straighten, tighten or perform whatever other orthodontic measures his experience deems advisable.

Upon these elementary beauty measures your child's future happiness may depend. It pays to consider them!

WHAT TO DO WHEN SUN BRINGS ON PIMPLY RASH

Sun Rash
"After I sit in the sun for a short while, a rash appears on my skin which itches terribly. If I go in bathing, and then sit on the beach to dry my suit, all parts of my body which are not covered have this rash inside of three or four hours. It appears like tiny, red pimples, and if scratched, gets little white blisters. It doesn't make any difference where I am—shore or country—just as soon as I get out into the sun, I get this troublesome rash. I have had it for the last five summers."

fine powder on the surface, which may impart a foreign taste.

Chow Chow
(Mrs. Mary Morton's Daily Tested Recipe.)

One peck green tomatoes, one-half peck string beans, one-quarter peck small white onions, three red, three green peppers, two heads cabbage, four tablespoons white mustard seed, two tablespoons celery seed, two tablespoons allspice, two tablespoons dry mustard, one pound brown sugar, one ounce tumeric. Slice tomatoes and let stand overnight, salting each layer well. In the morning squeeze out the briny juice, grind or chop cabbage, onions, beans. Chop tomatoes separately. Mix all with spices, add salt, if needed, put in preserving bottle and cover with vinegar. Boil three hours. Can.

Quite a few suffer this inconvenient Mrs. D. is a form of hives, due to the action of the chemical rays of the sun on certain skins. Why the sun should thus cut up is not known.

The most usual form of hives is due to certain foods—strawberries, mushrooms, shellfish, etc.—to which the victim is sensitive. It is often brought about by dietary indiscretions, and perhaps there is some dietary indiscretion of short or long duration preceding the sun hives, which makes the skin sensitive. Are you on a balanced diet, and do you obey the other hygienic rules?

Different remedies help allay the itching—bicarbonate of soda, lemon, toilet water, vinegar and water, etc. Better look to your whole hygienic regime, however, because you don't want to lose the benefit of the sun baths.

When you do take sunbaths, you should remember that you should expose your skin for a very short time at first and very gradually increase it, so that the skin tans rather than burns. If you are interested in our article on Hives, you may have it by following column rules. Better ask also for the article on Balanced Diet.

Can Woman Expect Happiness With Man Younger Than She?

That women age more quickly than men always has been accepted as the truth. But is it true today? I think not. One has only to look about him at a gathering of middle-aged people to see that, if anything, modern women look, act, feel and actually are, just as young as men of the same age, and often younger. However, to marry a man younger than oneself has always been a reproach to a woman. It was somehow felt that a woman older than her husband must have used unfair coercion to get him, and if the fact be known her acquaintances twist her with it, the husband himself usually being the "under the skin" of the victim and leaves her hurt and angry. Such things do not make for marital harmony. Although this twitting may be intended as humor, it almost usually gets its effect.

"Dear Mrs. Lee: My trouble is that I've met the right man but cannot have him. What little time I did go with him he was so sweet and kind, and when he asked me to marry him I was the happiest girl on earth. Then he asked me to wait a year as he was only 20. I could hardly believe him, as he looked and acted much older than I. I am 28, but am little and have always chummed with my younger sister and her crowd. He thought I was 20. After finding this out we agreed not to see each other any more. My mother and I both think that I'll always be and look young for my age, and if he really loved me he would still want me. He now works about 12 miles from here, where a friend of mine lives. This friend says that he asks and talks about me all the time, and my heart aches for him constantly. Do you think age would make any difference if we should marry? I haven't seen or heard from him for five months now. As I wrote last and he did not answer. Why not? Would it be all right for me to write again?"

"YEARNING"

Frankly, dear, I'm afraid I must advise you against such a marriage. The fact that he has not written you for some time would seem to argue that he is not as interested as he was. Most men do not like the thought of a wife older than themselves. You, too, would be sensitive about the matter and often feel hurt when it was mentioned, although no slur was intended. Can't you train yourself to think of him as a younger brother and love him in that way? I am sorry not to be of more comfort, but that is really what I think, according to the facts of life as I know them. If, however, after a year or two, he should come back to you and say he loves you so much he wants you and cannot be content without you, then I think you might risk it, because, after all, eight years in a small matter and women don't age these days.

The Floating Eyes

Mrs. Bobolink, priding herself on her knowledge, ruffled her feathers. "We know exactly what submarines are, and how they duck beneath the waves for us, and how they come up to the surface and then sink again. First, you see, a great big boat. Then slowly but surely the boat sinks beneath the waves and you would never believe your own eyes if you didn't see a queer thing sticking out of the waves right where the ship had disappeared. Sometimes the sun hits this funny thing that looks about with the waves and makes it shine. Then it looks like a great eye."

Bobolink clapped her wings. "Very well said, wife," cried he. "Of course, it looks like an eye for it is an eye—the eye of the ship."

"And the sailors look out through it and see what is going on on the top of the water although they are really way beneath the surface," cried Peter. "Right-o," agreed Bobolink, nodding his head. "And I hope that from now on you will believe I know what I am talking about when I tell you a thing."

"What do you suppose Mother Rabbit and I care what they looked like," cried Sonny-Bunny suddenly, interrupting Bobolink. "We don't know what submarines are anyhow, and we don't give a lettuce leaf! What we want to know is what the Cormorants did! The captain, did he stay on the buoy all the time his brothers and sisters were floating about, or did he join them."

"You are a rude rabbit, Sonny-Bunny," declared Bobolink, and poor Mrs. Rabbit buried her face in her paws for shame to hear her son spoken to like that. But she

Kellygrams

By FRED C. KELLY

I recently heard a large, pompous woman customer laughing, trying to impress a quiet little sales girl in a department store. "Rully, rully," she said, in a throaty voice, "I don't if you have anything here that would suit me. I think I'll just wait until I'm back in New York."

After the customer had duck footed out, the little sales girl turned to one of her associates and observed:

"That old egg thinks she's slumming."

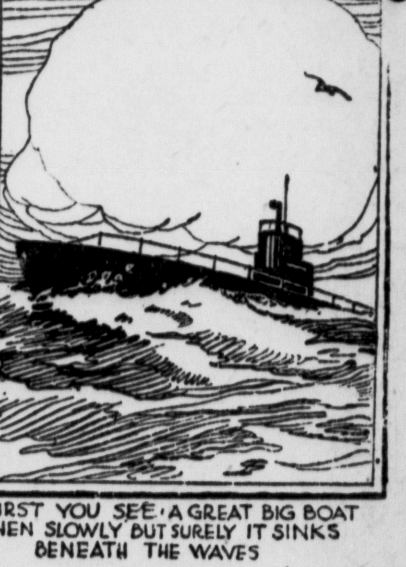

People who try to be impressive usually succeed only in making asses of themselves.

Amelia: If you have shown your manner that you like the boy, Amelia, you can do nothing else, except, possibly to take a friendly interest in his plans and hopes so that he can see you are a sympathetic little soul to whom he might like to unbuckle his heart.

Here: A man who carries a pig skin down a field cleared by other men who don't count.

couldn't say a word, for she knew he deserved it. Mrs. Bobolink, however, chirped reproachfully to her mate.

"Now Bob, don't be a cross."

patch!" she said. "When you were young you were not a bit better behaved than Sonny-Bunny. I am sure. You don't always remember your manners now. You know I don't blame the youngster for wanting you to go on with the story, and if you don't I will."

"Suit yourself," grumbled her husband, so the little lady bird continued.

"Well, Sonny-Bunny, after those Cormorants had stared at us until I began to think they were never going to stop and had learned all about us from Captain who stayed on the buoy to explain things, they began to fish. You may not believe it, but I do believe it. They caught hundreds of fish right while we were watching!"

GAME WILL DECIDE CITY'S WORST TEAM

To decide which has the worst softball team in the city, the Phi Delta Kappa Fraternity and the Kiwanis Club, teams which finished in first place in the National and American Leagues, respectively, have arranged to play a post-season series of three games.

The opening game will be played next Monday night at 6 o'clock at Cox Memorial Athletic Field, followed by contests the following Wednesday and Thursday.

Each team succeeded in winning one game apiece during the season in their respective leagues. The post-season series is being arranged to settle the question of inferiority.

Neither team will be permitted to "load up" for the series. Only members of the two organizations will be eligible to participate.

The series is expected to attract as great interest as the coming series for the 1928 city softball championship.

INDIAN LAKE GIRL NOW "MISS OHIO"

CEDAR POINT, O., Aug. 30.—Miss Emadee Graham, of Indian Lake, today holds the title of "Miss Ohio" for this year, and will represent the Buckeye state in the bathing beauty contest at Miami, Fla., in December.

Miss Graham was declared the winner of the state bathing beauty contest, which was conducted here in connection with the annual Ohio Elks' Convention. She was selected last night from the twelve survivors of an original list of thirty contestants.

Miss Hetty Bell Fell, of Kent, won second honor, and Miss Grace Woods, of Akron, was third.

ENJOYS GLORIOUS HEALTH; GLAD TO INDORSE KONJOLA

"It Completely Ended My Stomach Trouble," Says This Man

Everywhere in Xenia and all the nearby towns, men and women are highly recommending this Konjola medicine which the Konjola Man is now explaining to the public at the Gallaher Drug Store, Xenia. Konjola is helping thousands of people who were never benefited by any medicine or treatment before. It is especially beneficial in cases of stomach, liver, kidneys and bowel troubles, or rheumatism or neuritis.

Just a few days ago the following report was received from Mr. O. E. Gooding, No. 4 Miller Ave., Xenia, Ohio:

"I strongly indorse Konjola after the amazing relief it gave me from all my health troubles," said Mr. Gooding. "It ended my stomach trouble and my whole system has been greatly benefited."

"I had taken nearly every medicine on the market trying to rid myself of the terrible misery of stomach trouble. I would become distressed after meals and all the medicine that I would take for relief had no effect upon me. The gas on my stomach caused me to become short of breath and it was almost impossible for me to eat anything. I had such terrible dizzy spells that I could scarcely walk without staggering and would nearly fall. I finally got in such a bad condition that I could not eat and was bothered very much by constipation. In spite of taking all kinds of laxatives the constipation came right back again. I would have the most terrible headaches that seemed to always stay right in the back of my head. These troubles gradually grew worse until they finally affected my nerves. The least little noise would upset me so that I would go all to pieces."

"Then Konjola was brought to my attention and I was told of the results other people were getting from this medicine. So I made up my mind to give it a trial. It went right to the source of my health troubles. By the time I had finished the first bottle of Konjola, I knew I had at last found the medicine I had always been looking for. My stomach never bothered me in the least any more and the gas bloating does not come over me. I am never dizzy and I can walk any place I want to, without becoming the least bit dizzy. Konjola cleaned the poisons from my system, making future laxatives unnecessary. My nerves are stronger and at night I can go to sleep the minute I get into bed. The next morning I get up feeling full of pep and vigor. Konjola surely did the work for me and I want to indorse this medicine to others."

The Konjola Man is at the Gallaher Drug Store, Xenia, where he is daily meeting the public and introducing and explaining the merits of this remedy. Free samples given.

THOUSAND SIGNED REGISTER IN XENIA

Fewer former residents attended the 1928 Greene County Home-Coming, which was also celebrated as Xenia's 125th anniversary, than returned for the similar celebration twenty years ago, according to Home-Coming officials.

The registration book at Home-Coming headquarters contains the names of approximately 1,000 former Greene Countyans. In 1908 it is estimated that 1,700 former residents attended the Home-Coming.

However, the headquarters registration book is not believed to be an accurate barometer of the total number of ex-Greene Countyans who were here for the Home-Coming since many failed to register.

G. O. P. CAMPAIGN SUCCESS MAY DEPEND ON THEM

On the shoulders of these men rests a large share of the responsibility for the success of the Republican party in the presidential campaign. Snapped with Senator Charles Curtis, vice presidential nominee, at Topeka, Kan., they are, left to right, Senator Arthur Capper, of Kansas; Dr. Hubert Work, campaign director; Senator Curtis; Senator Simeon D. Fess, of Ohio, who notified Curtis of his nomination, and Governor John S. Fisher, of Pennsylvania.

Oldest Twins?

Mrs. Frances Peterson, above; Mrs. Mary Halbert, below, both of White Hall, Ill., in their ninetieth year, believe they are the oldest living twins in the United States. They were born in 1839, the daughters of Joel Jennings.

In Wake of Bremen

Charles Levine (above) and Bert Acosta, who, despatches from Berlin, Germany, assert, will fly the Atlantic from Croyden, Eng., to Roosevelt Field, L. I. Their plane, a Junkers monoplane of the Bremen type, has been christened "The Queen of the Air."

Volcano Kills 1,000

Map shows island of Paloekeh, in the Dutch East Indies, which virtually has been destroyed by the eruption of the Rokatinda volcano, taking the lives of 1,000 natives and wiping out six villages. Nine boats en route from Celebes island to Paloekeh were also reported sunk. Paloekeh is four miles in diameter and rises to a peak 4,593 feet high. It lies five miles off the north coast of Flores island, one of the larger of the Malay archipelago group.

YOUTH TO TRY CONTINENTAL HOP

A 17-year-old aviator, Dick James, of Flushing, L. I., hopes to win a $1,000 prize for a flight from San Francisco to New York, open to youths under 18 years of age, in his ship, the Spirit of American Youth. On his flight he expects to touch 21 of the largest cities en route. He has made more than 50 solo flights. Above he is standing beside his plane, and inset also is of James.

FILM WIDOW TO WED CAMERAMAN

Lina Basquette, screen actress and dancer, soon is to wed Peverel Marley, star cameraman for Cecil B. DeMille. Miss Basquette has a two-year-old daughter and is the widow of Sam Warner, the producer. She met her fiance when she was appearing in a film which he photographed.

Seek His Identity Meet Mrs. Whiting

Blood tests may be performed to determine whether George Redhantz, above, is the child born to Mrs. Paul Redhantz, of Madison, Wis., in a Madison hospital a year ago. On leaving the hospital the baby bore a tag with the number "55." Mrs. Redhantz believes it should have been "80."

Mrs. William F. Whiting, wife of William F. Whiting, recently appointed secretary of commerce to succeed Herbert Hoover, is snapped at the Whiting home in Holyoke, Mass.

Find Monster Bones

Roy Chapman Andrews, leader of the American Museum of Natural History's expedition into Central Asia, reports that his party has unearthed the headbones of a prehistoric monster "about the size of the Woolworth building." The latter structure is 792 feet high. The monster which the Andrews party refers to could easily have gobbled a half-dozen elephants in a single bite.

Freddy Heimach, once a member of the Philadelphia Athletics, has been purchased from the St. Paul club of the American Association by the New York Yankees. Heimach, a southpaw, has been one of the outstanding hurlers of the A. A. loop. The move on the part of the Yanks is plainly an effort to strengthen their wobbly pitching staff.

Establishes New Parachute Record

Jack Cope, veteran pilot, shown establishing new world's record over Ashburn Field, Chicago. He dropped 3,400 feet before pulling rip cord that opened his parachute. Inset, Cope just prior to feat.

Drops 3,400 Feet

Jack Cope, veteran aviator, now holds a parachute record. Snapped in Illinois while he prepared for his hop, Cope immediately afterwards jumped 10,000 feet from an airplane cabin door into space and dropped 3,400 feet before opening his parachute, falling through space for 13 1/2 seconds before pulling the string to release the parachute.

An Author Rests

FORMER XENIAN HAS WRITTEN NEW BOOK ON RELIGIOUS TOPIC

A new book by Dr. Daniel Johnson Fleming, former Xenian, who occupies the chair of foreign service at Union Theological Seminary, New York, is recently out of the press and is attracting the favorable attention of critics.

The work, "Attitudes Toward Other Faiths," has been selected as the book for July by the editorial committee of the Religious Book Club Inc. The announcement, signed by S. Parkes Cadman, Henry Emerson Fosdick, Bishop Charles H. Brent, Bishop F. J. McConnell and Mary E. Wooley, says: "There is no superficial assumption on Prof. Fleming's part that all religions are of equal merit, or that all are equally adequate to human need."

"Never is there any disposition to water down the religious experiences of men to a thin common denominator. On the other hand, there is an insistent warning that not only a genuine knowledge of other religions, but also a vital experience of one's own, is the indispensable condition of any worthwhile inter-religious fellowship. Otherwise we shall hardly escape the perils either of a rose colored dietitism, or else of spineless indifference. Few men could muster such essential qualifications for this study as the author."

Dr. Fleming is the son of the late Mr. and Mrs. Daniel Fleming and was born and reared in Xenia. He had not lived here since his graduation at Wooster College following which he spent fourteen years as a professor at Lahore Christian College, India. He has been connected with Union Theological Seminary for ten years.

SENATOR ROBINSON WILL BE NOTIFIED ON THURSDAY NIGHT

where throughout the city the dominating countenance is that of the vice presidential nominee.

Governor Smith will not be here for the notification of his running mate, but has designated his eldest daughter, Mrs. John B. Warner as his personal emissary. John J. Raskin, chairman of the Democratic national committee, who will preside at the ceremonies tonight, was scheduled to arrive from St. Louis shortly before noon. With him were Senator Peter G. Gerry of Rhode Island, chairman of the national advisory committee, Mrs. Nellie Taylor Ross, former governor of Wyoming and vice-chairman of the national committee, and Mrs. Franklin D. Roosevelt, chairman of the woman's advisory committee. National committeemen, state chairmen and rank and file representatives of the democracy of the entire nation added to the throng.

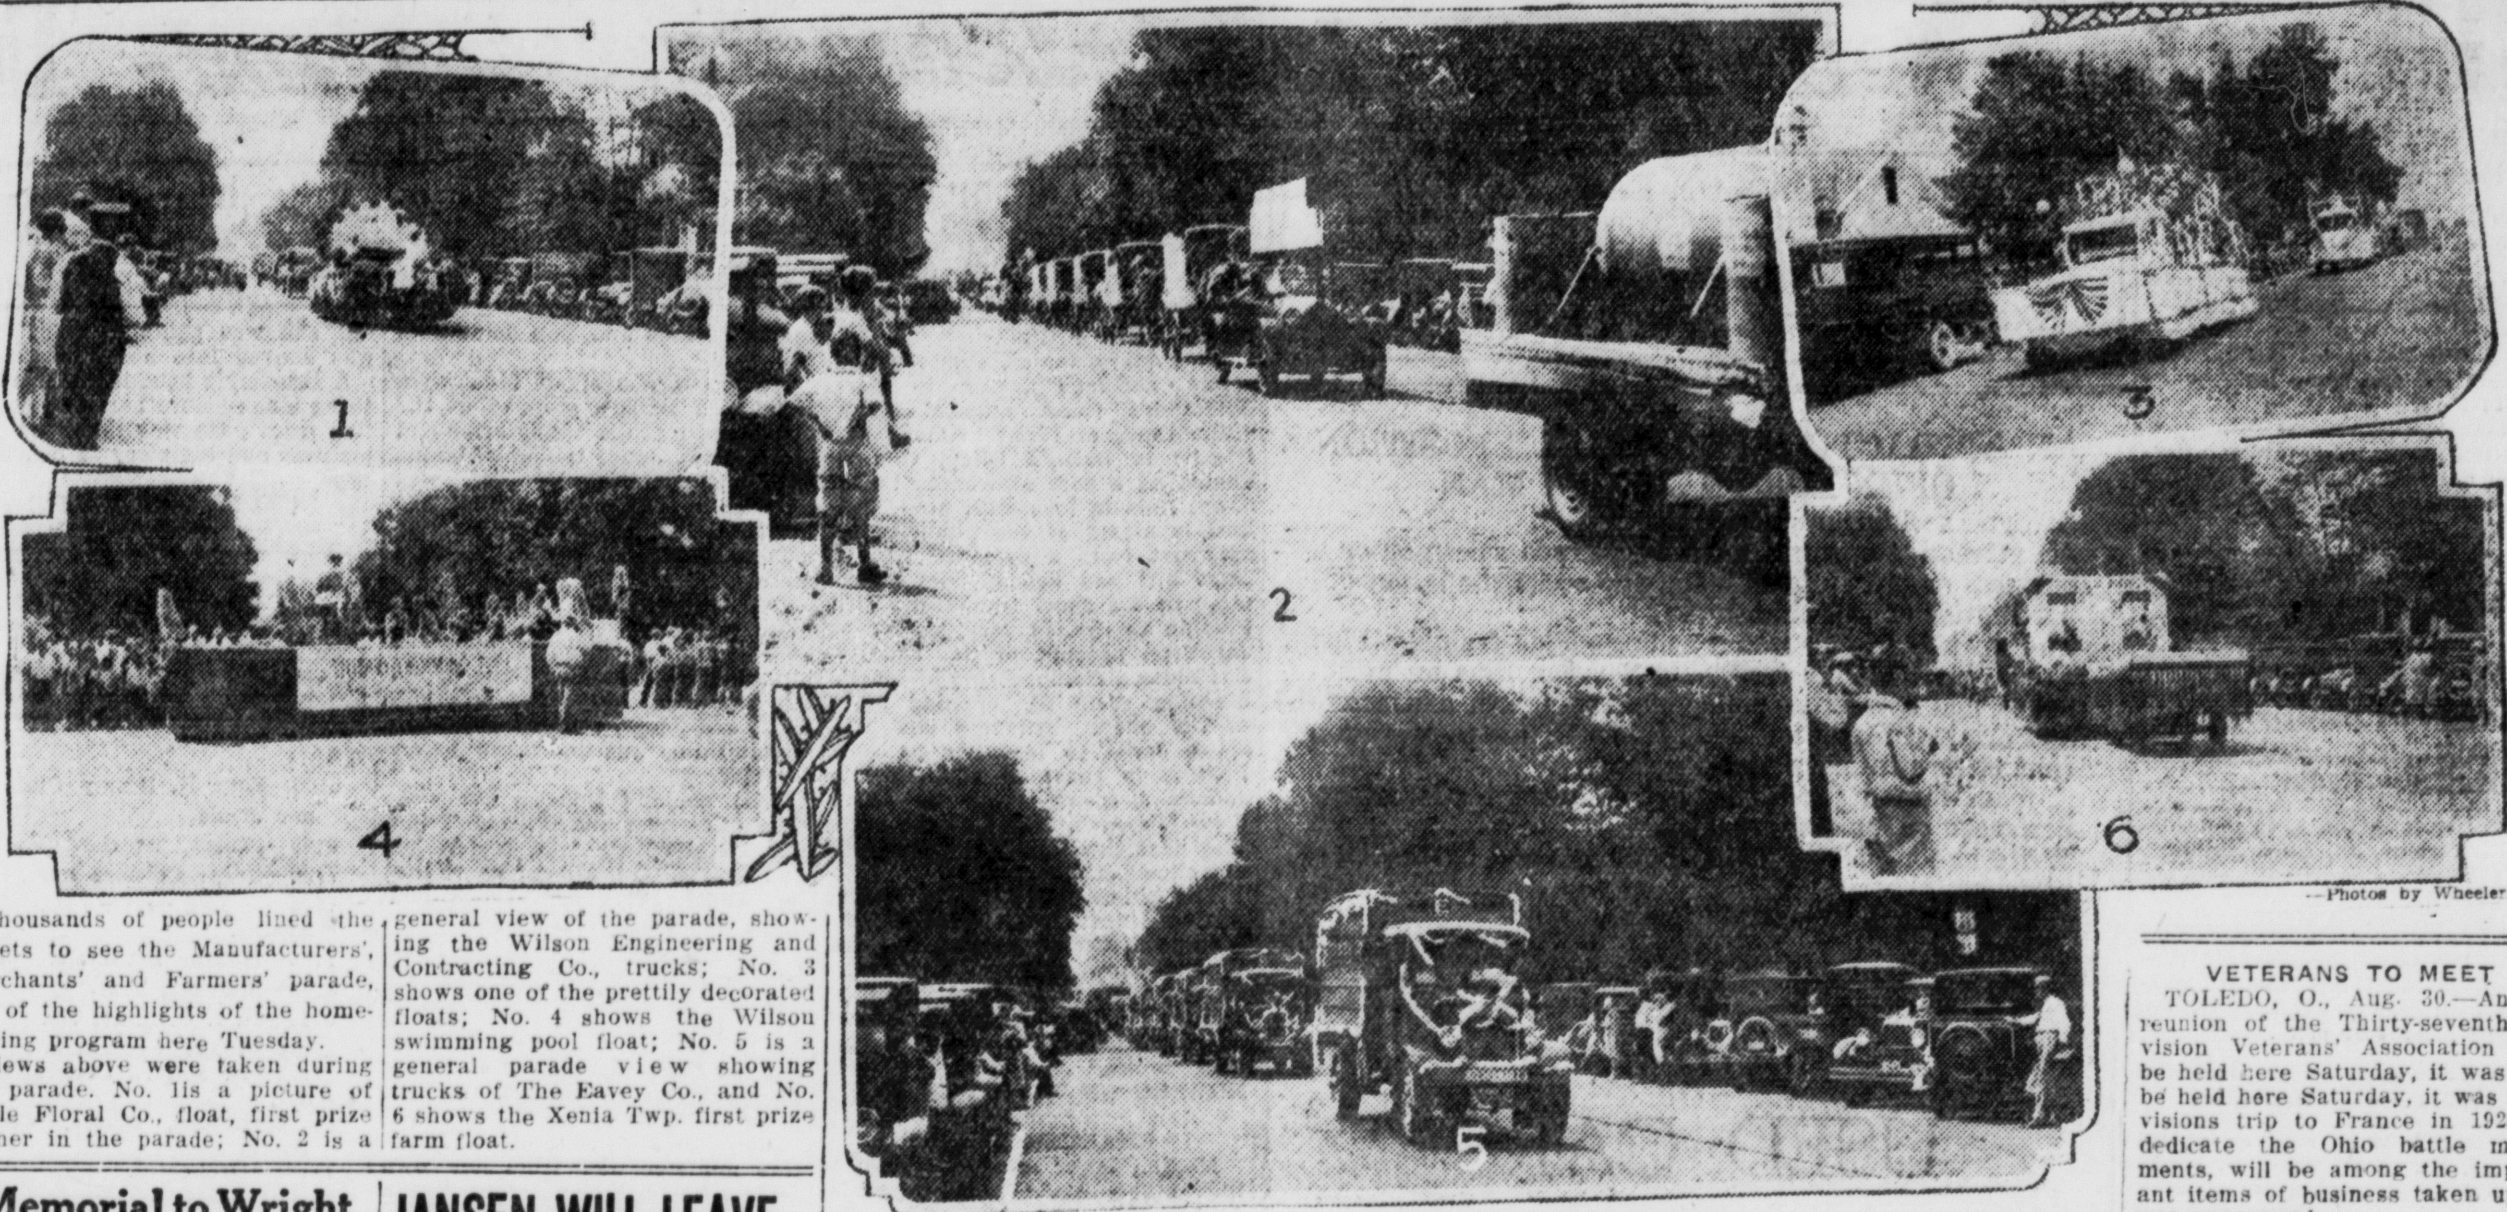

Claude G. Bowers, keynoter of the Houston convention, will deliver the address of notification at 8:30 p. m. Central Standard Time. Senator Robinson's speech of acceptance in which he is expected to outline the major issues of the solid south campaign, will follow immediately. Fifty-five radio stations from coast to coast are linked for the broadcast.

Gov. Harvey Parnell has declared today a state-wide holiday. Mayor Leo McLaughlin has issued a proclamation requesting residents of the city to keep their automobiles off the streets as much as possible to make way for the tourist traffic which converged on the city by every artery.

Powerful flood lights, concealed in the hillside pines are to light the mountain ridges which tower above the speaker's platform at either side of the Arlington Hotel Parkway. The governor's salute will be fired by a contingent of Arkansas national guard from the top of Hot Springs Mountain, half a mile away, as Senator Robinson makes his appearance.

The platform from which Robinson will speak is in a pocket in Hot Springs Mountain at the end of the street known the world around as "Bath House Row." Within five city blocks, all on one side of the street, are the twenty-seven natural hot water baths which made Hot Springs famous. Forty-nine springs in Hot Springs Mountains are the source of the city's world-wide fame. One of these springs is situated half way up the mountain side not more than 200 feet forward of the speaker's stand.

THOUSANDS WITNESS MANUFACTURERS', MERCHANTS', FARMERS' PARADE

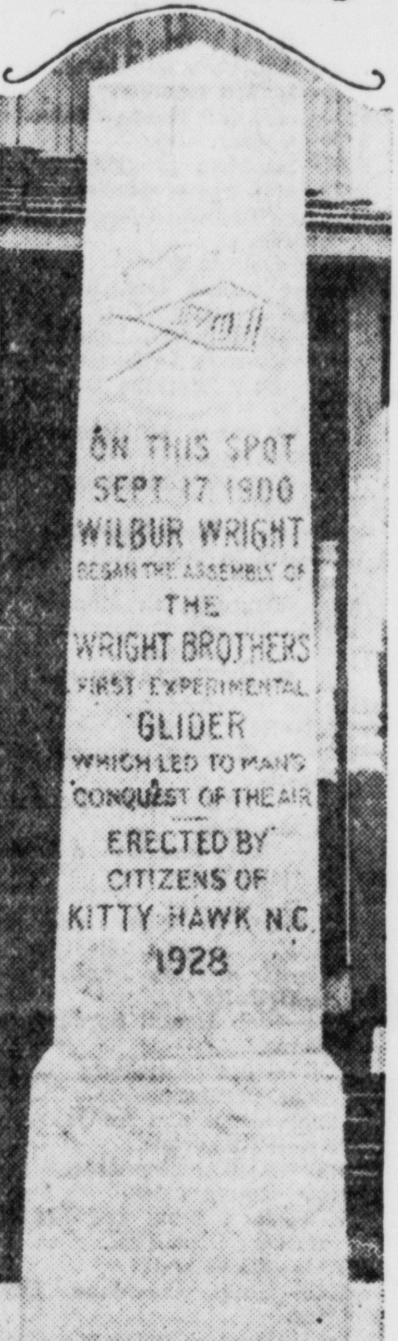

Thousands of people lined the streets to see the Manufacturers', Merchants' and Farmers' parade, one of the highlights of the homecoming program here Tuesday.

Views above were taken during the parade. No. 1 is a picture of Eagle Floral Co. float, first prize winner in the parade; No. 2 is a

Memorial to Wright

On the spot where Wilbur Wright, aviation pioneer, worked on his glider at Kitty Hawk, N. C., in 1900, and finally took off on the first successful heavier-than-air flight, citizens have erected this shaft, in the front yard of the Methodist parsonage.

RELIEF FROM CURSE OF CONSTIPATION

A Battle Creek physician says, "Constipation is responsible for more misery than any other cause."

But immediate relief has been found. A tablet called Rexall Orderlies has been discovered. This tablet attracts water from the system into the lazy, dry, evacuating bowel called the colon. The water loosens the dry food waste and causes a gentle thorough, natural movement without forming a habit or ever increasing the dose. Stop suffering from constipation. Chew a Rexall Orderlie at night. Next day bright. Get 24 for 25c to-day at the nearest Rexall Drug Store.

JANSEN WILL LEAVE XENIA SATURDAY

Harry Jansen, circulation manager of THE GAZETTE for the last year and one-half, has resigned his position effective September 1 to become district circulation manager for the Lorain, Ohio, Times-Herald.

Mr. Jansen came here from Middletown and was formerly connected with the Cincinnati Enquirer. Mrs. Jansen will not move to Lorain until later. Howell Huston, Xenia, who has been assistant to Mr. Jansen, will succeed him as circulation manager of THE GAZETTE.

ELEAZER

Miss Mary Smith spent a few days at the reservoir last week and also at West Carrollton.

Mr. and Mrs. Laverne Fulton spent Saturday with Mr. and Mrs. W. P. Maddux, at Frankfort and Mrs. Maddux returned home with them Sunday morning to visit during the homecoming. Mr. Maddux and Mr. and Mrs. Ralph Whaley came Tuesday and Mrs. Fulton returned with them Tuesday night. Mr. and Mrs. Thomas Faulkner, Mr. and Mrs. Laverne Fulton were guests of Mr. and Mrs. Thomas Bales, for Sunday dinner.

STEAK BURNS

Smoke arising from a forgotten steak which was left in an oven and burned, resulted in a summons for the fire department to the home of Ella E. Bickett, 25 Leaman St., at 11:04 a. m. Wednesday. William Quirk, former extra fireman, who lives across the street from the Bickett residence, turned in the alarm. Loss was small.

FOUR INJURED WHEN TWO AUTOS COLLIDE AT STREET CORNER

Miss Nelle McKay, W. Second St., advertising solicitor for THE GAZETTE, received a painful cut on her hip and severe bruises; her niece, little Miss Betty McKay, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. W. P. McKay, E. Second St., was cut on her hip and Mrs. W. P. McKay, Kansas City, Mo., Miss McKay's sister, was bruised when the auto in which they were occupants was struck by the machine driven by Brant Bell, Hill and Columbus St., at the intersection of Third and Monroe Sts., Wednesday night at 10:30 o'clock.

Miss McKay, Mrs. McGarey and little niece were in the auto of H. S. Dalley, and were driving east on Third St. The Bell machine was being driven north on Monroe and it is believed neither driver saw the other.

The Dalley machine was rolled over several times. The Bell auto was not damaged nor its occupants hurt. Mr. Dalley received painful bruises and slight cuts.

The injured people of the other car were removed to the W. P. McKay home where a physician attended them.

WESTERN GIRL STRENGTHENED

By Taking Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound

Manchester, So. Dakota—"I was in a terribly weak and run-down condition when a friend told me about Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound. I began taking it and after a short time I felt better. We are a family of five and live on a 300-acre farm, so I have quite a good deal to do both indoors and out. At first I was unable to do anything and had to have a girl, but after taking the Vegetable Compound I finally gained my strength back and also gained considerable in weight."—Miss. Orro J. GEYER, R. F. D. 1, Box 20, Manchester, So. Dakota.

Perfect Health is always refreshing

If you are tired—lack pep—if your skin is not clear—if your appetite is "gone"—you owe it to yourself and friends to try S.S.S. Its tonic effects will surprise you.

WHEN your system is filled with rich, red blood, you don't have that tired, languid feeling when you awake in the morning.

Instead, you feel refreshed; ready to meet the world!

Your appetite is keen, you enjoy work or play. Your skin is clear—cheeks naturally rosy.

All this because rich, red blood is Nature's substance for building and sustaining the body.

Thousands have regained their strength and charm by taking few bottles of S.S.S.—Nature's own tonic for restoring the appetite—building strength—and clearing the body of so-called skin troubles.

You know a clear skin comes from within. Correct the cause—thru the blood—and pimples, boils, eczema and that sallow complexion will disappear.

For more than 100 years S.S.S.

has been giving relief in thousands of cases, as testified to in unsolicited letters of gratitude.

"I was troubled with pimples and blackheads. I took a course of S.S.S. It cleared my face and back. I think S.S.S. is wonderful. I have told many friends about S.S.S., and they are getting as much benefit as I did."—Miss Ruth Gahn, 1134 Elden Ave., Los Angeles, Calif.

All drug stores sell S.S.S. in two sizes. Get the larger size. It is more economical.

COUNSEL
If thou shouldst bid thy friend farewell,
But for one night though that farewell may be,
Press thou his hand in thine; thou canst not tell
How far from thee
Fate or caprice may lead his feet
Ere that tomorrow come. Men have been known
Lightly to turn the corner of a street
And days have grown
To months, and months to lagging years,
Before they look on loving eyes again.
Parting, at best, is underlaid with tears,
With tears and pain,
Therefore, lest sudden death should come between,
Or time, or distance, clasp with pressure true
The palm of him who goeth forth;
Unseen,
Fate goeth too!
Yea, find thou always time to say
Some earnest word betwixt the idle talk,
Lest with thee henceforth ever,
night and day,
Regret should walk.
—Mary E. M. Davis (1852-1909)

THE MEMORIAL FOUNTAIN

When the class of 1908, Central High School, presented the school with the ornamental fountain which still stands on the site of the old building, Miss Jean B. Elwell, then head of the English department composed a sonnet for the occasion.

When the class of 1908 held a reunion during the home-coming, the sonnet was revived for the occasion and is published herewith following general requests:

Dedication of The Memorial Fountain, June 22, 1908
O mystic hour! As trails the veiling day,
And waiting stars gleam far in faint-flushed skies,
By magic power the cloud-born waters rise
In prismatic sheen, in rhythmic murmuring spray.

Even Hippocrene and founts where Naiads play
Or Arctureus swift files in misty guise,
This fountain of perpetual youth out-veils;
For mortal mind here holds immortal sway.

Not from the ground the purring rilllets spring;
Thy myriad drippings from the brimming bowl
Are thoughts of these fair youth in friendship bound;
'Neath dusky boughs, their mingling voices ring
In choral joy that 'trolls from soul to soul'.
While crystal showers the echoing sounds flash round.
—Jean B. Elwell.

50 Percent Humor 50 Percent Slang

Willie Collier is the author of this statement and says that he ought to know. You see, Willie is the only native New Yorker that is living in New York, so he says, and claims he is qualified to observe changes in the old town—its folks, its stage, and its humor.

All humor is divided into two parts—humor and slang.

"As I walked into the Friars Club—which I use for my town house," said Mr. Collier, "an old clothes man stopped me saying: 'Mr. Collier, won't you sell me your old clothes?'"

"I will," I told him, "but I will be able to go home after you buy them."

Now this sort of thing, according to Mr. Collier, is not funny, yet he says Broadway laughs at just such cracks for twelve hours every day and gets a kick out of them. Everything is moving at a fast rate now and even Broadway's humor has been boiled down to wise-cracks and slang.

"Nonsense," she laughed happily. "You need a day off."

Janet dressed in her loveliest the next day. All in all, it was a mild, sunny day, and her heart sang as she got ready for the excitement of

MAKE-UP

A Romance of the Footlights
BY ALMA SIOUX SCARBERRY
©1928 CENTRAL PRESS AND INC.

READ THIS FIRST:
Janet Mary James, eighteen and pretty, becomes a star in Mort Goldstein's latest musical show, "Blue Lays of 1928." Among her friends is Ballard Riley, who is known as a sort of woman hater. Janet falls in love with him. Ballard is afraid of the publicity he may get from a romance with a show girl and keeps Janet guessing. In the show troupe one girl, Floline Deslys, is very jealous of Janet on account of her success. She hides a diamond ring in Janet's dressing room the opening night of the show, believing she will cause Janet to lose her position. Floline is observed slipping into Janet's dressing room by Lotus Flower, Janet's little Chinese maid. The next day Janet is summoned to police headquarters.

The police find that the charge against Janet is a frame-up, and Floline is discharged from the cast of the show. Maxine Griffiths, a chorus girl, is a great friend of Janet's. Janet befriended Maxine in rehearsal days, when Maxine was "broke."

NOW GO ON WITH THE STORY

CHAPTER XXXVIII
Maxine burst into Janet's room that night like a young cyclone. Janet was amazed when she grabbed her and whirled her around until she was dizzy.

"Silly!" Janet laughed, when she had caught her breath. "Whatever has happened to you?"

Maxine buried her head in Janet's shoulder, and her voice held all the happiness in the world.

"Oh, Janet, Janet darling! I just got a wire from Bob. He is coming tonight on the midnight train, and we are going to be married tomorrow."

Janet sat down. She was floored! So it had happened at last! She was so happy for tired little Maxine that she wanted to cry, and gathered her to her as though she were a little child. Her eyes filled.

"Oh, honey! God bless you both. I'm so glad!"

Maxine was bubbling over with plans.

"You must go with us. We are going to Greenwich, Janie. I couldn't be married without you. You will!"

"Will I?" Janet laughed. "Try to stop me, Mrs. Carney."

Then Janet made her mind up all of a sudden to tell Maxine about Ballard—and how she, too, was in love.

In the middle of the narrative, her voice fell.

"But, Maxine, I don't think he is a marrying man. I'm so afraid he will never ask me to marry him. But he did break down and tell me he loves me."

Maxine looked at Janet, scornfully a moment, and dimpled.

"Janie, any man would love you. Gosh, he would if he isn't blind. If you think Bob wasn't a hard lid fish to land, you should have tried him. He's a twenty-minute egg. If there ever was one."

"What brought the romance to a crisis?" Janet questioned, curiously.

"His cousin's wedding," Maxine laughed. "He saw his favorite cousin married—and to a girl on the stage, too. So he decided to make it a family habit, I guess."

Janet was thoughtful. That was an idea. She grinned, dimpling.

"Em-m! Maybe I can inveigle Ballard into going up to Greenwich tomorrow. Wouldn't that be great?"

Maxine was thrilled with the idea.

"Boy, that's the old groceries, girl! Anyway, we need another witness. Tell him to have a heart—we can't find anyone else."

All during the show, Janet played with the idea. It wouldn't make any difference to Ballard, surely, that she had told Maxine she was her friend since she was leaving the show. Anyway, he could just be a very casual friend.

Ballard met Janet after the show, and he was not in a very enthusiastic mood; but she put her heart and pride in her pocket and laid her head over on his shoulder.

"Bal, will you do something for me?"

"You've never asked me to do you a favor before, shoot. I will," he gazed.

"Well," she swallowed, a little scared, "my girl friend, Maxine, and a nice boy from Pittsburgh, are going up to Greenwich tomorrow to be married. She wants me to go. Will you go, too, and drive us up? It looks as though it's going to be such a nice day."

Much to Janet's surprise, Ballard laughed and readily consented.

"I've never been a witness. I'll be a new thrill. But you're a slave driver, taking me away from my work."

"Nonsense," she laughed happily. "You need a day off."

Janet dressed in her loveliest the next day. All in all, it was a mild, sunny day, and her heart sang as she got ready for the excitement of felt she was going to faint as it was shoved into her hands.

A screaming headline sent everything black before her. And the entire front page was taken up with pictures and the story in big, black type.

BRINGING UP FATHER

The Theater

By FLEET SMITH

NEW YORK, Aug. 30.—"The Fleet's In," it seems to this previewer, is the best picture Clara Bow ever made. The badheaded warming furnace is supported by an excellent cast, James Hall as leading man playing like a real actor, and a new comic, Jack Oakie with one of the most irresistible faces on the screen. Malcolm St. Clair directs with all his skill, employing not so much his well-known cleverness and effness as a tremendously competent speed, naturalness and dramatic punch.

The title speaks for itself. It is the story of sailors on shore leave. It moves along like a howlball downhill. If it doesn't prove one of the greatest drawing cards of the season, all the odds for criticism will have to be linked. George Marion's title could be good reading aside from the film, just as a column of snappy cracks. You may be interested to know that Clara in this picture does not disrobe. She's sufficient effective with 'em on.

One other picture of the new list to rave about, while in that mood! It is "The Water Hole," a Zane Grey story featuring Jack Holt and Nancy Carroll. Here is that well-known species, the horse opera, with cowboys, gunplay, physical battle against hardships in the desert, just as you might have expected. But unexpectedly, here also is humor, freshness, originality of situation, and appeal not merely to the boys who stamp their feet for westerns on Saturday afternoon but to the adult audience. In the all roundup of films, this youngster will certainly have to be branded with a big O. K.

In this hectic time of pioneering in the sound picture field, the John Barrymore special, "The Tempest," has one unusual claim

Twenty Years '08- Ago -'28

Hitching racks have been provided in the Ormsby field on N. Detroit St., where several hundred vehicles can be accommodated during the Home-Coming.

One old Xenia family largely represented at the Home-Coming, whose members have come from widely different sections of our county, are daughters and one son of Lindsay Hogue, who came to Xenia with his wife from Virginia in 1832.

The relic room on W. Main St., is the mecca of hundreds of Home-Comers.

Woolley and Piers are two of the most enthusiastic Home-Comers having cancelled this week's engagement at Cleveland to be here.

PLANES MANEUVER OVERHEAD AS GUARDSMEN STAGE SHAM BATTLE

Minus the scheduled aerial sham battle and daylight fireworks, the "aerial parade" staged by twelve planes from Wright Field was repeated over the city late Wednesday afternoon in connection with the observance of "Patriotic Day" of the Home-Coming.

The maneuvers were similar to those of Tuesday and lasted half an hour.

During the "parade" Company L, 147th Infantry, Ohio National Guard, under Captain O. H. Cornwell staged a sham battle in Shaw-

See Park. The defensive force was entrenched north of the park and the attackers were deployed as skirmishers near the auditorium. The attackers advanced in skirmish lines, both sides adding to the realism by using rapid fire with blank cartridges.

While the stunt flying was in progress, one of the more daring pilots went into a nose dive, dropping such a great distance that there were many reports he had actually crashed near Cedarville. These were erroneous.

Soaring over the heads of the several thousand people in the Park Wednesday night, flashlight pictures of the gathering were taken by Wright Field flyers from an airplane. Capt. Albert W. Stevens, photographer, made the pictures.

TWO MORE DAMAGE SUITS RESULT OF SAME AUTO CRASH

Two more suits growing out of an auto accident on the Yellow Springs Pike at the Possum Road intersection last May 9 have been filed in the Clark County Common Pleas Court.

These suits are for $1,000 damages each and were brought against Sandy Pettiford, colored, Yellow Springs, by Charles Y. Quick and his daughter, Ellen Louise Quick, Springfield.

Two days ago Mabel Quick, Springfield, was named defendant in two damage suits totalling $2,390, filed in Greene County Common Pleas Court as a result of the same accident.

The suits were filed by Sandy Pettiford and his minor daughter, Dora, 7. Mr. Pettiford seeks $390 judgment for damages to his auto and a doctor's bill for his child, while his daughter asks $2,000 damages for alleged personal injuries, claiming to be disfigured for life.

The actions filed in Clark County preceded the suits filed in Greene County.

SEND IN BILLS
All individuals and firms having bills outstanding against the Greene County Home-Coming Association are asked by Miss Josephine Wolf, in charge of Home-Coming headquarters, to turn these bills in at once to headquarters in order that all financial transactions in connection with the celebration may be wound up as speedily as possible.

JEFFERSON SCHOOL OPENING MONDAY; TEACHERS EMPLOYED

Jefferson Twp. Centralized Schools will open Monday morning, September 3. Only a morning session will be held for registration and assignments and school will be dismissed in time for children to get home for lunch. Buses will collect the children at the usual time.

The following teachers will have charge this year:

Mary Morris, first and second grades; Gladys Bales, second and third grades; Lucille Garringer, fourth and fifth grades; Hazel Smith, fifth and sixth grades; Wiley Manker, arithmetic, history, geography, general science and citizenship; Thelma Fisher, history and home economics; Lella Lemar, English and Latin; L. H. Downing, manual training, science and orchestra; Elizabeth Ankeny, vocal music; C. A. Devoe, superintendent.

All children will be transported in motor trucks this year, the following drivers having been employed:

Route 1, O. E. White; Route 2, J. F. Baker; Route 3, George Shirik; Route 4, Floyd Smith; Route 5, Howard Harness; Route 6, Foy Gerard; Route 7, Samuel Adams; Route 8, Will Adams; Route 9, Jesse Ary; Route 10, Harold Cline; Ralph Lewis continues as janitor.

About fifty additional children will attend this year because of transfers of territory, most of whom will come from Bloomington.

The board of education has made several needed improvements this summer, including weather stripping the windows of most exposed rooms; decorating grade school rooms and office; repairing and laying new cement walks.

The work of changing the auditorium so it could also be used as a gymnasium has also been completed this summer. Patrons will have a chance on opening day to see how the auditorium will appear seated with the new chairs. It is hoped to have a formal opening and dedication of this improvement soon after the opening of school.

All patrons and friends of the school are invited to attend the opening on Monday morning. An inspiring beginning is hoped for as the school begins a new school year.

Ray Hite, president; F. A. Charles, clerk; Chas. H. Cline, Ray Garringer and Charley Hollingsworth are the present members of the board of education.

STUDEBAKER President Eight 30,000 miles in 26,326 minutes!

Greatest endurance record in history of transportation

BETWEEN July 21 and August 9, four Studebaker President Eights—all fully equipped, regular factory production cars—triumphed over the severest test ever given any automobile. This 30,000 mile run—a record distance achieved in record time—was conducted under the close and constant supervision of the American Automobile Association which certified each car to be a strictly stock model. In fact, all four motors and chassis were selected, not by Studebaker, but by A. A. A. officials who picked them at random from the assembly line at the Studebaker factory. If not chosen for this test, these regular factory Presidents would have gone out to dealers and you might have bought one of them at any Studebaker showroom.

by American Automobile Association officials, not a single seal was broken during the 60,000 miles of running. These official seals were placed on the manifold, engine head and carburetor of each car.

Studebaker's new and exclusive ball bearing spring shackles went through the entire 120,000 miles of running without a single adjustment, without the addition of any lubricant, and were functioning perfectly at the end of the run.

What it proves

The Studebaker President's new record of 30,000 miles in 26,326 minutes is a feat unapproached in the history of transportation. It proves beyond doubt or question that The President Eight is an expression of engineering genius without peer in the automotive world. It is evidence of the inexhaustible resources of Studebaker performance—of high quality materials, precision manufacture, skilled workmanship and rigid inspections.

Why be satisfied with less?

You can pay more than Studebaker prices, but in no other car at any price can you buy more stamina or more finely balanced performance than in Studebaker's President Eight. And back of every One-Profits Studebaker is 76 years of manufacturing integrity.

Don't wait until November 6 to select your President—DO IT NOW!

Average 68 miles per hour

All four Studebakers—two President Eight roadsters and two President Eight sedans—completed 30,000 miles each at better than mile-a-minute speed.

Both roadsters completed 30,000 miles in less than 27,000 minutes, averaging better than 68 miles per hour for 19 days and 18 nights of continuous driving.

The two sedans averaged 63.99 and 64.15 miles per hour respectively for this tremendous distance.

The fastest thousand miles of each roadster was the thirtieth—71.67 and 69.65 miles per hour! Studebaker Presidents improve with use.
